Public School Integration Starts In Virginia Today

Segregationist Group Planning Demonstration

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The first public school integration in Virginia history starts Monday at Norfolk and Arlington, where city and school officials say they expect no violence.

However, a segregationist group at Arlington has announced plans for a demonstration.

Stratford Junior High in Arlington will open its doors at 8:45 a. m. to four Negro pupils along with 1,076 white youngsters.

At 9 a. m. six secondary schools in Norfolk, closed by state order since last September, will reopen and enroll 17 Negroes and nearly 7,000 white students. Many of the 10,000 students are attending private schools or public schools in nearby communities and are not expected to return to Norfolk public schools this semester.

The schools will close at 12:30 p. m. after pupil registration. As integration becomes an accomplished fact—four years and 261 days after the May 17, 1954, Supreme Court decision banning public school segregation—the Virginia Legislature will be standing by in Richmond to gauge the effect. The Legislature has reluctantly accepted token integration as inevitable.

School Area Blocked

The Arlington chapter of the Prosegregation Defenders of State Sovereignty and Individual Liberties announced its members would follow school buses en route to Stratford High Monday morning and attempt to talk white pupils out of boarding the buses. The organization's president, Jack Rathbone, said signs bearing anti-integration messages also would be available for distribution to any white students desiring them.

But Arlington School Supt. Ray E. Reid said he believes "there will be a smooth transition" to integration at Stratford. Negro and white students will be forbidden to congregate outside the school, and police will block off an area half a mile wide around the school grounds.

Cooperation Urged

J. J. Brewbaker, Norfolk's school superintendent, joined with white student leaders Sunday in urging citizens to keep the peace.

Brewbaker called for "sympathetic understanding and full cooperation on the part of everyone" so the Norfolk schools may reopen "in a calm and dignified manner."

His plea was echoed by 63 student members of the Key Club honor society at Granby, Maury and Norview high schools in a paid advertisement appearing in Sunday morning's Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Brewbaker said any adult seeking to enter any of the six reopening schools Monday morning will be required to identify himself and register as he enters.

Actress Takes Turn For Worse

DURANGO, Mexico (AP) — Injured actress Audrey Hepburn took a turn for the worse Sunday night. One doctor said she may have suffered internal injuries as well as broken vertebrae.

Plans remained unchanged to fly her home to Los Angeles Monday in a special plane with her husband, actor Mel Ferrer.

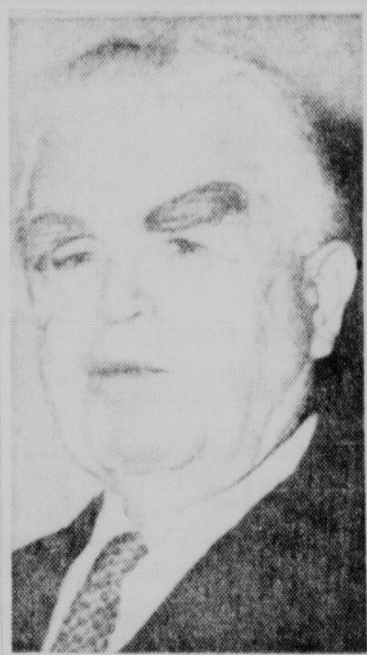

The film actress was thrown from a horse last week while filming the four-million-dollar movie, "Unforgiven" on location 20 miles from Durango.

British, Hurt By ECM, Take Countersteps

LONDON (AP)—British industrialists, fearful of an approaching trade war, announced Sunday first countermeasures against the six-nation European Common market—ECM.

After just a month's operation, the market already is hurting British manufacturers. Industry and government fear the outlook is bleak.

An influential group led by Raymond Gordon of Fairley Aviation announced it is forming an organization called the Commonwealth Union of Trade. Its aim is to build up Commonwealth trade as an insurance against possible loss of European markets.

Topline British manufacturers, big names in the auto and engineering industries among them, already have lost sales outlets carefully built up in Europe since World War II. Their Continental agents, dealers and merchants who had been importing British machines, are switching to German products, which they believe will benefit most from the ECM scheme.

The ECM started operating Jan. 1 in France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg. The six nations cut tariffs and increased quotas for imports from fellow members.

About 12 per cent of all Britain's trade is with the six. Although it is too early to assess detailed figures, the British are clearly anxious.

A spokesman for the Society of Motor Manufacturers said: "Our agents on the Continent are as worried as we are."

"If an agent is handling a British car in France and sees that in 10 years time his chances of selling it will be reduced, he naturally gets worried."

France is the focal point of British worries. It has more barriers against imports than other members of the six. That makes the tariff-reduced German product an even bigger attraction for French buyers.

Government Opens Broad Probe Of Food Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is ordering the nation's food industry to help de-escalate economic power within the industry by providing information on its operations.

The Federal Trade Commission said it is requiring more aspects of food retailing, depending on the size of the retailer, to be disclosed to the public. At present, the FTC is focusing its study on concentration of power in the food industry.

Investigations of this sort normally continue for months, even years. They frequently are called "informal inquiries."

Mailing of questionnaires marks the real beginning of a broad campaign to study the food industry. The mission study of the food industry is the nation's largest business. Questionnaires have been sent to about 1,050 food chains, retail food stores, and groups of grocers.

The FTC announced in October it was planning the inquiry. The independent food stores. These expires after the 1960 convention commission said then it had received many complaints of collusion in the food industry.

'Real' Vodka Offered U.S. By Mikoyan

MOSCOW (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan says he offered to export unlimited quantities of vodka to the United States during his talks in Washington.

Pravda, the Communist newspaper, published Sunday the full report of the first deputy premier to the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party Saturday.

Vodka is one product the Soviet Union can easily spare "now that our own consumption has been drastically reduced," Mikoyan said.

"I noticed they — the United States—are making their own vodka but advertising it as Russian vodka without asking us for a license," he added.

He said C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, to whom he made the offer, "regretfully told me the American product was not as good as ours."

Mikoyan declared Secretary of State John Foster Dulles sent Dillon and Undersecretary of state Robert Murphy over the same route covered by Mikoyan's U. S. tour to "wipe out the favorable impressions I left" in talks with local businessmen and other leaders.

"There was no immediate comment from Dillon or Murphy in Washington."

"During his visit to this country Mikoyan visited Detroit and had lunch with a number of prominent business leaders. At that time Mikoyan pressed his drive for more trade with the United States."

"Subsequently Murphy made a speech to the Economic Club of Detroit in which he cautioned business leaders against believing that the visit of Mikoyan would suddenly open the way to large-scale Soviet-American trade."

"(Dillon in a speech the following day, Jan. 27, to the Mississippi Valley World Trade Council at New Orleans, challenged the Soviet Union to prove it really wants trade."

Switch Goes On With Big Poof

CARLECOTES, England (UPI) — Electricians finished connecting their cables, stood back and shouted, "Switch on." Then:

—Radio sets burst in flames or blew up.

—Television sets began to smoke.

—Light bulbs popped.

—Water heaters exploded.

—Every light in this village of 105 people went out.

Yorkshire electricity board area manager explained that "there was a break in the neutral connection in the three-phase supply which became unbalanced."

In less technical terms, the voltage of the village's electricity supply was nearly doubled.

The electricity board accepted full responsibility for all burned out appliances and other damage.

Attempted Suicide Hour Before Facing 6-Man Firing Squad

HAVANA (AP) — Capt. Pedro Morejon, first to die in Havana's revolutionary trials, attempted suicide an hour before he was executed by a six-man firing squad, authoritative sources said Sunday.

The execution of the 38-year-old veteran of 15 years service in the Batista army was carried out in almost complete secrecy shortly before midnight as the provisional government stepped up the pace of its trials of alleged war criminals.

No government announcement was made of the execution—the 264th, by unofficial count, since the rebels won a month ago—and was witnessed by no newsmen. In addition to the firing squad and officers, only a priest was present.

Sound Of Firing Heard

Revolutionary sources confirmed the execution, however, and an eyewitness reported seeing Morejon taken from his cell in the converted prison chapel, loaded in a jeep with a squad of six soldiers, and driven into the interior of Spanish-built La Cabana fortress.

Soon the sound of firing and then a single shot was heard. Presumably he was placed against the 20-yard thick wall surrounding the grassy interior. Disposition of the body was not made known. The secrecy contrasted with the publicity given his trial in a small courtroom just outside Libertad army camp and some of the executions witnessed by crowds. It also contrasted with government promises that newsmen would be admitted to all trials and executions.

Attempts To Hang Self

The lone outside witness of Morejon's death, Franciscan Father Javier Arzuaga, had two long visits with him Saturday and said his spirit was serene.

But an hour before he was led out, prison sources said, Morejon attempted to hang himself with his belt in his cell a few feet from that occupied by Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who is awaiting the outcome of an appeal on war crimes charges. Guards who thwarted the attempt quoted Morejon as saying, "I don't want my family to see my riddled body."

His wife and two children, ages 10 and 12, did not visit him Saturday.

Ford And GM Target Of Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) proposed Sunday that Congress make it illegal for automakers to finance the sale of their cars.

O'Mahoney said he will introduce legislation Monday which would "dissolve the unholy alliance between manufacturing and financing in the automobile industry—the most highly concentrated of our basic industries."

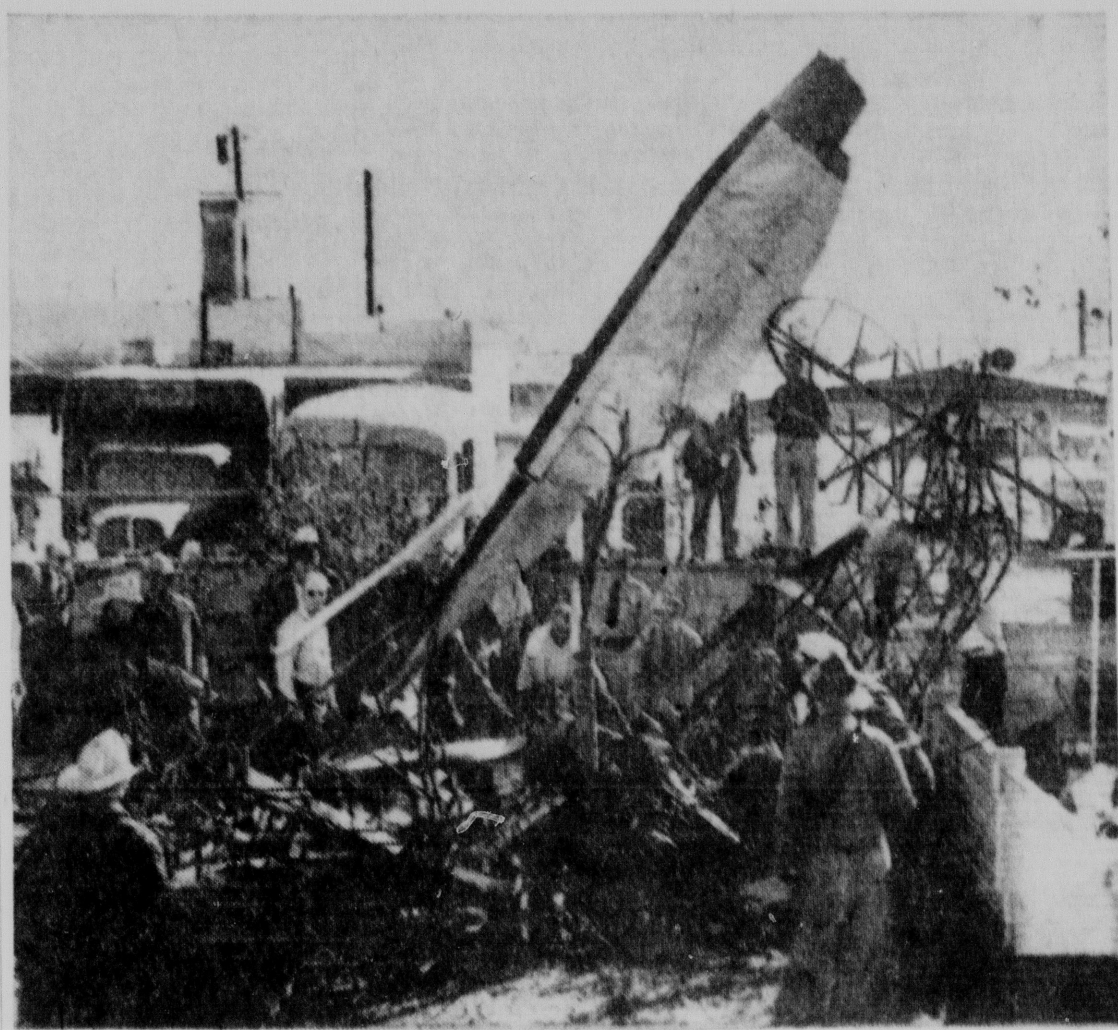

"The bill is not a panacea," he said, "but it is a step which is manifestly necessary if free competition in the automobile and automobile financing industry is to be preserved. Experience has demonstrated that the present antitrust laws are wholly inadequate to meet this situation."

His bill, O'Mahoney said, is designed specifically to prevent Ford Motor Co. from carrying out its announced plan to finance sales of its autos. Also, he said, it would prevent General Motors Corp., from continuing this line of business.

GOP Chairman Feels "One Hitch Enough"

SUFFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn Jr., said Sunday night that he feels "one hitch in this job is enough."

Alcorn, who succeeded Leonard Hall as party chairman after the latter resigned following the 1956 convention, said "anyone who has served in this job for one term has served just about as long as he would want to." He said his term would end after the 1960 convention and "I would like to get back to my law practice."

Demos Charge "Split" In GOP Growing Wider

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats, accustomed to charges of intra-party strife, tossed the same accusation at the Republicans Sunday.

The Democratic Digest, official party publication, said the bitterness of what it called the Republican family fight has reached the point where "the neighbors can follow it with their windows closed."

The magazine's January-February issue said the "Republican split" has been widened by the party's 1958 defeats. It cited GOP leadership squabbles in Senate and House and said the recent meeting of the Republican National Committee in Des Moines "warmly applauded criticism of Eisenhower."

"So-called 'modern liberal' and 'old guard conservative' Republicans are at each other's throats," the Digest said. "County committeemen are wailing about the growing shortcomings of the Republican National Committee."

"The once-heralded Eisenhower-Nixon administration is now regarded as 'the real villain' responsible for the crushing downfall of Republican candidates last November."

"Faced with their present dilemma—a party without purpose, principles, or persuasion—individual Republicans are solving in all directions like a massive fleet of uncontrolled missiles."

Idea Of Economic NATO Gains Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries set up an economic NATO has gained support in some administration quarters.

The purpose would be to harden Western defenses against Soviet economic warfare by imposing aid and tighter restrictions on trade with the Communist bloc.

The amount of the wage raise was not announced.

Pub's Beer-Tea Policy Sets Off British Rumpus

CRADLEY HEATH, England (AP)—A storm is blowing up in this Staffordshire town over two old English pastimes—beer and tea-drinking.

Local cafe owners are accusing tavernkeeper Cyril Smith of unfair trading. They claim he sells tea—tea, mind you—at his pub, the Vine and Railway Inn.

Said cafeowner Tom Palmer: "What a row there'd be if we started selling beer. But, of course, you need a license for that—you don't for tea."

Replied Smith: "I'm trying to make mine a public house in every sense of the word."

Wives who don't drink, but like the atmosphere of a pub, can come in for a "cuppa," he explained.

Meanwhile, the local branch of the Licensed Victuallers' Assn.—the national organization of the liquor-selling trade—called a special meeting for Tuesday to discuss the rumpus. But Smith wasn't budging.

Musicians End Network Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Federation of Musicians and three major radio and TV networks reached agreement Sunday on a new five-year contract, ending a seven-hour strike.

The strike began at midnight Saturday when the old contract expired.

The networks involved are the American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System, and National Broadcasting Co.

Herman D. Kenin, president of the federation, said the union's members had all been instructed to return to work. The new contract, approved by the union's international executive board, is not subject to member ratification.

The contract terms included a wage increase and a schedule of payments to the musicians when Western defenses against Soviet economic warfare by imposing aid and tighter restrictions on trade with the Communist bloc.

The amount of the wage raise was not announced.

Object Resembling Lifeboat Reported Spotted From Plane

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Two big U.S. Air Force patrol planes cruised above the stormy seas off Greenland Sunday, searching in vain for a trace of the little Danish ship Hans Hedtoft.

Surface rescue vessels were forced out of the immediate area where the Hedtoft was believed lost with all 95 aboard after striking an iceberg Friday. The search ships were fighting 40-foot waves and freezing 60-mile-an-hour winds.

Although hope has been virtually abandoned for the Danish passenger-freighter, one of the search planes reported spotting an object it said could possibly have been an overturned lifeboat near the Hedtoft's last reported position in the North Atlantic.

The U.S. Coast Guard in New York said the plane reported the object appeared to be a double-ended lifeboat with a lengthwise black stripe.

Doubt If It's From Hedtoft

A spokesman for the Royal Greenland Trading Department in Copenhagen said the object described could hardly have been a lifeboat from the Hedtoft. He said its lifeboats all were made of aluminum and unpainted.

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Campbell said the object was seen by the Air Force fliers only once and the next day's air and sea search would be conducted in the area where it was sighted — "weather and sea conditions permitting."

"The reported overturned lifeboat was the only significant result of the air search," the Coast Guard said.

The Campbell was joined during the night by two Danish ships, the Tiesten and the Rink. Along with the German vessel Poseidon, which has already crisscrossed a wide area of ocean with the Campbell, they steered clear of the smashing ice floes around the Hedtoft's last known position.

Ill-Fated Ship's Maiden Voyage

The 2,318-ton Danish motorship Umanak, carrying 85 passengers and 40 crewmen, was diverted from its Greenland-Denmark run to join the search but later withdrew because of the weather, the Greenland Trading Department said.

The Air Force C54s in the hunt have come from Goose Bay, Labrador, and Keflavik, Iceland.

The 2,785-ton Hans Hedtoft, specially built with heavy bow and stern and extra compartments for hazardous winter conditions around Greenland, was on her maiden voyage back to Denmark when she radioed Friday she had struck an iceberg and was sinking.

Lewis "Quite Ill," Physician Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis, 78-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, was described Sunday by his physician as "quite ill."

Dr. John Minor said Lewis, who entered Georgetown University Hospital Friday for observation, had suffered an attack earlier Sunday.

Dr. Minor said it was not clear if the attack was an embolus — defined as any foreign or abnormal particle circulating in the blood — or pneumonia.

He said the exact nature of the seizure would be determined in the next day or two.

The Democratic Digest, official party publication, said the bitterness of what it called the Republican family fight has reached the point where "the neighbors can follow it with their windows closed."

The magazine's January-February issue said the "Republican split" has been widened by the party's 1958 defeats. It cited GOP leadership squabbles in Senate and House and said the recent meeting of the Republican National Committee in Des Moines "warmly applauded criticism of Eisenhower."

"So-called 'modern liberal' and 'old guard conservative' Republicans are at each other's throats," the Digest said. "County committeemen are wailing about the growing shortcomings of the Republican National Committee."

"The once-heralded Eisenhower administration is now regarded as 'the real villain' responsible for the crushing downfall of Republican candidates last November."

"Faced with their present dilemma—a party without purpose, principles, or persuasion—individual Republicans are solving in all directions like a massive fleet of uncontrolled missiles."

Idea Of Economic NATO Gains Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries set up an economic NATO has gained support in some administration quarters.

The purpose would be to harden Western defenses against Soviet economic warfare by imposing tighter restrictions on trade with the Communist bloc.

Voluble Ground Hog Gripes

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
A PENNSYLVANIA HIDEOUT (AP)—The famous old weather prophet lifted a languid lid, exposing an eye red and bleary, more from antisocial meditations than from sleep.

"The same old folly, I see," he said. "When are you going to wise up?"

Resignation and malice played tug-of-war in his words as he went on:

"Let's get it over with, seeing nothing will stop you from invading my privacy. Go ahead, reduce me to a calendar cliché. Call me seer of the season."

"But . . ."

"Checkful of butts, aren't you, as walsy? You people get an idea—and I libel the term even in such loose use—and it sticks like a limpet to the stern of a sea snow."

Pub's Beer-Tea Policy Sets Off British Rumpus

CRADLEY HEATH, England (AP)—A storm is blowing up in this Staffordshire town over two old English pastimes—beer and tea-drinking.

Local cafe owners are accusing tavernkeeper Cyril Smith of unfair trading. They claim he sells tea-tea, mind you—at his pub, the Vine and Railway Inn.

Said cafeowner Tom Palmer: "What a row there'd be if we started selling beer. But, of course, you need a license for that—you don't for tea."

Replied Smith: "I'm trying to make mine a public house in every sense of the word."

Wives who don't drink, but like the atmosphere of a pub, can come in for a "cuppa," he explained.

Meanwhile, the local branch of the Licensed Victuallers' Assn.—the national organization of the liquor-selling trade—called a special meeting for Tuesday to discuss the rumpus. But Smith wasn't budging.

Musicians End Network Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Federation of Musicians and three major radio and TV networks reached agreement Sunday on a new five-year contract, ending a seven-hour strike.

The strike began at midnight Saturday when the old contract expired.

The networks involved are the American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System, and National Broadcasting Co.

Herman D. Kenin, president of the federation, said the union's members had all been instructed to return to work. The new contract, approved by the union's international executive board, is not subject to member ratification.

The contract terms included a wage increase and a schedule of payments to the musicians when France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany in an effort to remove disagreement and achieve Allied harmony.

The amount of the wage raise was not announced.

Dulles To Meet With Fulbright Prior To Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles plans to confer with Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) before leaving for German policy talks with Allied leaders in Europe this week.

In the State Department the meeting with Fulbright is viewed as having more than ordinary importance because it constitutes Dulles' first move to set up a close working relationship with the incoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) decided last week to step aside from the Foreign Relations chairmanship because of defective eyesight and hearing. Fulbright, who will succeed him as the next ranking Democrat, has been a frequent and bitter critic of Dulles.

Dulles is tentatively slated to leave by air late Tuesday, with his first round of talks scheduled for Wednesday in London. He will see French leaders in Paris and West German leaders in Bonn before returning about Feb. 11. His meeting with Fulbright is expected to take place late Monday.

In an airport interview on returning Sunday from a New York speaking trip, Dulles said his mission to Europe will deal with two aspects of the German-Soviet problem, which has been the focus of East-West conflict for more than two months—and which threatens to develop into a full blown cold war crisis in May.

One aspect, Dulles said, "is the problem of Berlin and the Western reaction to possible Soviet moves."

"The other," he added, "is the possibility of having talks about Germany with the Soviet representatives."

His words indicated that he will be talking with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, President Charles de Gaulle of France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany in an effort to remove disagreement and achieve Allied harmony.

Huge Waves, 60-Mile Wind Hamper Hunt

Object Resembling Lifeboat Reported Spotted From Plane

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Two big U.S. Air Force patrol planes cruised above the stormy seas off Greenland Sunday, searching in vain for a trace of the little Danish ship Hans Hedtoft.

Surface rescue vessels were forced out of the immediate area where the Hedtoft was believed lost with all 95 aboard after striking an iceberg Friday. The search ships were fighting 40-foot waves and freezing 60-mile-an-hour winds.

Although hope has been virtually abandoned for the Danish passenger-freighter, one of the search planes reported spotting an object it said could possibly have been an overturned lifeboat near the Hedtoft's last reported position in the North Atlantic.

The U.S. Coast Guard in New York said the plane reported the object appeared to be a double-ended lifeboat with a lengthwise black stripe.

Doubt If It's From Hedtoft

A spokesman for the Royal Greenland Trading Department in Copenhagen said the object described could hardly have been a lifeboat from the Hedtoft. He said its lifeboats all were made of aluminum and unpainted.

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Campbell said the object was seen by the Air Force fliers only once and the next day's air and sea search would be conducted in the area where it was sighted — "weather and sea conditions permitting."

"The reported overturned lifeboat was the only significant result of the air search," the Coast Guard said.

The Campbell was joined during the night by two Danish ships, the Tjesten and the Rink. Along with the German vessel Poseidon, which has already crisscrossed a wide area of ocean with the Campbell, they steered clear of the smashing ice floes around the Hedtoft's last known position.

BI-Fated Ship's Maiden Voyage

The 2,318-ton Danish motorship Umanak, carrying 85 passengers and 40 crewmen, was diverted from its Greenland-Denmark run to join the search but later withdrew because of the weather, the Greenland Trading Department said.

The Air Force C-54s in the hunt have come from Goose Bay, Labrador, and Keflavik, Iceland.

The 2,785-ton Hans Hedtoft, specially built with heavy bow and stern and extra compartments for hazardous winter conditions around Greenland, was on her maiden voyage back to Denmark when she radioed Friday she had struck an iceberg and was sinking.

Lewis "Quite Ill," Physician Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis, 78-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, was described Sunday by his physician as "quite ill."

Dr. John Minor said Lewis, who entered Georgetown University Hospital Friday for observation, had suffered an attack earlier Sunday.

Dr. Minor said it was not clear if the attack was an embolus — defined as any foreign or abnormal particle circulating in the blood—or pneumonia.

He said the exact nature of the seizure would be determined in the next day or two.

Protestant Clergymen Show Cautious Interest In Pope's Unity Council Call

By The Associated Press

The Pope announced Jan. 25 he would convoke the 21st Ecumenical Council in the 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic Church. No date was set. Repre-

A sampling of opinions of Protestant clergymen across the nation indicated Sunday generally cautious interest in Pope John's call for an Ecumenical Council to seek Christian unity. There was speculation about just what he has in mind.

Ecumenical means worldwide, representing the whole Church. In Los Angeles, Dr. Fletcher H. Scharer, superintendent of the Tri-State District of the Methodist Church, said, "This announced meeting is of real interest to all Christians everywhere. We trust it will lead to better understanding between different branches of the Christian church, and a better basis of cooperation in the struggle against materialism. All gathering which brings Christian forces together has a potential for good."

Dr. Edward W. Stimson, pastor of Dundee Presbyterian church in Omaha, Neb., in an editorial for a church publication, wrote: "Certainly we should welcome any genuine move toward greater cooperation with our brother Christians of the Roman Church. Yet the Protestant reaction has been cautious, waiting to see whether the whole Church of Christ will be represented."

"If only Roman and Eastern Orthodox delegates are invited, it will be primarily a move to woo the Orthodox churches away from their fraternalization with Protestants in the World and National Council of Churches, and to commit them to the primacy of the Roman papacy, a strategy which will not work."

In Des Moines, Bishop Gordon V. Smith of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Iowa, said, "All who are conscious of the calling of the Church to be one family in Christ welcome Pope John's recognition of the importance of the ecumenical movement."

"The Episcopal Church, for many years, has been a leader in seeking unity of the whole Church of Christ. We welcome any opportunity to secure an understanding, which will promote peace and unity among Christian people, provided it is based on mutual respect and charity."

Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord of Boston said "Protestants should be cautious" in accepting any bid to take part in the council.

$31,132,000 In W.Md. Road Work Planned

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two years behind its original 15-year schedule because of rising costs and other factors, Maryland plans 140.45 miles of highway improvements this year, the State Roads Commission reported this week.

The work will cost an estimated $31,132,000 and includes 38.19 miles expected to cost $31,132,000 in five Western Maryland counties—Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery.

Reporting to Gov. Tawes and the General Assembly, the commission said this work will bring the long-range program actually completed or advertised to 1,234.10 miles since it began in 1954.

This six-year figure is 38.26 miles short of the goal set for the first four years of the plan.

Robert O. Bonnell, the commission chairman, told the governor and the Legislature there is only one reason for this — money.

"The failure to meet the projected construction mileage of the first four year period is attributable solely to the lack of funds," he said in the report. In what will be his farewell public appearance as commission chief, Bonnell will explain the report in detail to the Legislature on Feb. 10-11. Appointed during the Republican administration of Theodore R. McKeldin, Bonnell will resign Feb. 15 to make way for a new appointment by Gov. Tawes, the newly elected Democrat.

Bonnell said the shortage of money for the program was caused by rising costs of rights-of-way, labor and materials; redesigning some roads to meet federal standards and thereby make them eligible for federal funds; and the repeal by the Legislature of scheduled increases in motor vehicle license fees. These fees finance road maintenance and, when they are not enough to cover this cost, the commission must dip into construction funds to make up the difference — $13,100,000 so far.

Of the 38.19 miles and $31,132,000 allotted for Western Maryland roads this year, the biggest share — 10.19 miles and $12,844,000 — has been tagged for Washington County.

Frederick has been allowed 9.70 miles and $3,740,000; Montgomery, 7.63 and $7,404,000; Allegany, 7.40 and $5,462,000; and Garrett, 3.27 and $1,682,000.

None of the work in Allegany, Garrett or Frederick is included in the interstate highway system and, therefore, will not be financed under the program which calls for 90 per cent federal aid and 10 per cent state support.

In Washington County 8.33 miles will be part of the interstate network and Uncle Sam will chip in with $3,477,000. Montgomery's allocation includes 3.44 miles toward which $10,917,000 in federal funds will be contributed.

A breakdown of Allegany County projects shows:

Relocation and reconstruction of 2.50 miles of Maryland 36 from Barrelville to Mt. Savage; 1.70 miles of relocation of Maryland 36 from Mt. Savage to Morantown; 1.20 miles of urban dual highway on Industrial Blvd. from Cumberland's Crawford and West Streets to William St.; a bridge to take Industrial Blvd. traffic across the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; a .15-mile interchange ramp at Baltimore Ave. and U. S. 40; a bridge for Cumberland Thruway traffic at Willow Brook Road, and a 1.85-mile project to reconstruct Maryland 36 from Westernport to Phoenix Hill.

School Girl's Slayer Sought

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — State police were on an around-the-clock hunt Sunday for the slayer of Marcia Gail Gordon, 15, Norwin High School sophomore whose body was found in a shallow stream flowing through heavily wooded Slaughter Hollow in North Huntingdon Township.

The body of the girl, who had been missing since leaving a basketball game at the high school Tuesday, was found late Saturday by a boy hiking through the isolated area. An autopsy showed Marcia's skull had been fractured by repeated blows and that she had been criminally assaulted. Her left leg was broken and her body bruised.

Alumni Defend U. Of Md. Record

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Organized alumni of the University of Maryland have strongly defended the university's record of progress and said they have no desire to sacrifice academic standards for the sake of athletics.

A report backing the university was made public Saturday by the Alumni Council as the university faced a possible study by the Legislature.

Del Machen (D-Prince Georges) has said he planned to introduce a resolution calling for a year-long study of the university administration. He apparently is withholding the resolution pending further conferences with Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university.

Machen has said the university can have a good football team and sound academic standards. Dr. Elkins has agreed but said football will not determine academic programs.

A committee report adopted by the Alumni Council supports the university in the areas of instruction, accreditation and the relationship of athletics to academic standards.

Man Dies In Crash Near Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 25-year-old man was killed when he and two others were thrown from a car in a collision just east of Baltimore early Sunday.

Curtis Mathena, 25, of nearby Edgemere, the victim, was a passenger in one of the cars.

No one else was seriously hurt.

Baltimore County Police charged drivers of both cars with manslaughter, driving under the influence of alcohol, and reckless driving. In addition, Charles E. Armstrong, 21, of Edgemere, was charged with failure to stop at a stop sign and driving without a license.

Police said Armstrong pulled out of a side road into the path of a car operated by Howard L. Donovan, 24, also of Edgemere. Donovan was driving alone.

In Southwest Baltimore, Carl Black, 46-year-old Negro, was killed about 5 a. m. Sunday when his car struck a tree bordering on Hilton Street. He was dead on arrival at Lutheran Hospital.

Weekend deaths brought Maryland's highway toll for the year to 41, as compared with 34 dead in the corresponding period of 1958.

Social Security Checks Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bigger Social Security checks will go into the mails Monday for more than 12½ million persons.

William L. Mitchell, Social Security commissioner, said Sunday the total increase will be about 50 million dollars, making the monthly outlay about 740 million dollars.

The checks being mailed Monday cover January benefits. Thus they are the first to include the increases voted by Congress last year for recipients of old-age, survivors and disability insurance.

In general the increase amounts to about 7 per cent.

The new range for a retired worker aged 65 is $33 to $116 a month, compared with $30 to $108.50 previously. The maximum for a family becomes $234 a month instead of $200.

Keeping Space Pioneer Alert Will Be Problem

BALTIMORE (AP) — How about a blonde to keep that first space man alert on his pioneer trip out of this world?

"Anything will help," a Johns Hopkins University professor said Sunday. "Just so it stimulates the space man's dulled senses and keeps them alive."

Dr. Alphonse Chapanis didn't actually suggest a blonde.

But he said a big problem in the first manned flight into space will be to keep the real-life Buck Rogers mentally sharp. Scientists expect loneliness and boredom to be the chief psychological perils on such a trip.

"The simple fact is that man needs stimulation," said Chapanis, a professor of psychology and industrial engineering at Hopkins.

"When he is deprived of it he loses touch with reality. Since sensation is the only thing that tells us the difference between dream and reality, when sensation goes our ability to differentiate goes, too."

Chapanis, an internationally recognized authority on human engineering, outlined what the National Aeronautics and Space Administration may have been thinking of last week when it announced it had begun screening candidates for the first human space flight.

Chapanis and Dr. Natalia Potanin, a Hopkins research associate in psychology, suggested in an interview the ideal candidate may be something like the absent-minded professor.

That is, he may be "a schizoid introverted person with a little obsessive-compulsive trends."

The schizoid introvert, they explained, in normal life is withdrawn into his own concerns and is not dependent on others.

The obsessive-compulsive fellow, like the professor, has a high degree of organization, excessive concern for neatness, and a mind which dwells on details.

Keating Plans Bill To Protect Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-NY) said Sunday he will introduce a bill giving newspaper reporters immunity in federal courts and before congressional committees from disclosing the source of their stories, except where national security is involved.

Keating's statement came in a television program filmed for New York stations in which he discussed the Marie Torre case. Miss Torre, New York Herald Tribune columnist, served a 10-day jail term for contempt of court last month rather than reveal the source of a story she wrote.

Keating said 12 states now have laws which enable journalists to protect their sources.

No one else was seriously hurt. Baltimore County Police charged drivers of both cars with manslaughter, driving under the influence of alcohol, and reckless driving. In addition, Charles E. Armstrong, 21, of Edgemere, was charged with failure to stop at a stop sign and driving without a license.

Police said Armstrong pulled out of a side road into the path of a car operated by Howard L. Donovan, 24, also of Edgemere. Donovan was driving alone.

In Southwest Baltimore, Carl Black, 46-year-old Negro, was killed about 5 a. m. Sunday when his car struck a tree bordering on Hilton Street. He was dead on arrival at Lutheran Hospital.

Weekend deaths brought Maryland's highway toll for the year to 41, as compared with 34 dead in the corresponding period of 1958.

Social Security Checks Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bigger Social Security checks will go into the mails Monday for more than 12½ million persons.

William L. Mitchell, Social Security commissioner, said Sunday the total increase will be about 50 million dollars, making the monthly outlay about 740 million dollars.

The checks being mailed Monday cover January benefits. Thus they are the first to include the increases voted by Congress last year for recipients of old-age, survivors and disability insurance.

In general the increase amounts to about 7 per cent.

The new range for a retired worker aged 65 is $33 to $116 a month, compared with $30 to $108.50 previously. The maximum for a family becomes $254 a month instead of $200.

Keeping Space Pioneer Alert Will Be Problem

BALTIMORE (AP) — How about a blonde to keep that first space man alert on his pioneer trip out of this world?

"Anything will help," a Johns Hopkins University professor said Sunday. "Just so it stimulates the space man's dulled senses and keeps them alive."

Dr. Alphonse Chapanis didn't actually suggest a blonde.

But he said a big problem in the first manned flight into space will be to keep the real-life Buck Rogers mentally sharp. Scientists expect loneliness and boredom to be the chief psychological perils on such a trip.

"The simple fact is that man needs stimulation," said Chapanis, a professor of psychology and industrial engineering at Hopkins.

"When he is deprived of it he loses touch with reality. Since sensation is the only thing that tells us the difference between dream and reality, when sensation goes our ability to differentiate goes, too."

Chapanis, an internationally recognized authority on human engineering, outlined what the National Aeronautics and Space Administration may have been thinking of last week when it announced it had begun screening candidates for the first human space flight. The NASA mentioned psychological qualifications.

Chapanis and Dr. Natalia Potanin, a Hopkins research associate in psychology, suggested in an interview the ideal candidate may be something like the absent-minded professor.

That is, he may be "a schizoid introverted personality with obsessive-compulsive trends."

The schizoid introvert, they explained, in normal life is withdrawn into his own concerns and is not dependent on others.

The obsessive-compulsive fellow, like the professor, has a high degree of organization, excessive concern for neatness, and a mind which dwells on details.

Keating Plans Bill To Protect Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-NY) said Sunday he will introduce a bill giving newspaper reporters immunity in federal courts and before congressional committees from disclosing the source of their stories, except where national security is involved.

Keating's statement came in a television program filmed for New York stations in which he discussed the Marie Torre case. Miss Torre, New York Herald Tribune columnist, served a 10-day jail term for contempt of court last month rather than reveal the source of a story she wrote.

Keating said 12 states now have laws which enable journalists to protect their sources.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Brush your hair daily with a natural bristle brush.

Your Hair Needs A Natural Brush

Did you know your head of many variations of colorings in hair collects more than ten shades the average head of times as much dust in a day as hair has. This, of course, makes your skin?

Since you don't wash or cleanse your hair daily (or oftener) as you do your face, you will appreciate the great importance of daily brushing.

Always use the correct tools. For daily brushing a natural bristle brush is best better than nylon. If you have a nylon brush don't discard it, however — it's good for brushing out a fresh hair set. There are many reasons why a natural brush is over-all superior. In the first place it has imbrications similar to those on your own hair (it's easy to picture if you compare it to uneven shingles on a roof as dirt and dust carriers). The natural bristles hold the oxidized fluids from the scalp—oil, glandular fluids and perspirations. They are also flexible.

With your natural bristle brush you can transfer the dust from the imbrications of the hair to those of the brush. And you can't with the nylon brush for it has no imbrications. Being smooth, it can't remove dirt, dust and odors from the hair. Nylon bristles will usually cause static electricity in the hair which makes it "fly."

Remove dust and dirt once or twice a day with your brush. This will bring stimulation to the scalp, and is more satisfactory if you brush with the head down. Brush . . . brush . . . brush and every few minutes scrub the brush on a dry, clean towel. You want to bring the blood to the surface . . . your scalp should be a little pink when you do.

There are many things besides cleansing that a natural bristle brush does for your hair. It makes it much more manageable, adds elasticity, eliminates dryness and also polishes the

Forrest Mowbray Heads Heart Fund Campaign In Barton, Moscow, Reynolds

Mrs. Lola Green Is Co-Chairman

BARTON — Forrest Mowbray has been appointed chairman of the February Heart Drive for the Barton area which includes Reynolds and Moscow, according to David E. Kirk, county chairman.

Mr. Mowbray, a local merchant, has been affiliated with the Mowbray Brothers' grocery business for many years, and recently purchased the Barton Supply Company store.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and is active in Barton Volunteer Fire Company. He is presently serving as trial magistrate of the town and was recently a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital, in Frostburg.

In 1957 he served as chairman of the heart drive in Barton, Barton Unit No. 189, American Legion Auxiliary, has been contacted by Mr. Mowbray and members have agreed to assist with the drive. He will outline his campaign and name committee at the regular meeting of the unit, February 9, at the Legion home.

Mrs. Lola Green, who has been named co-chairman of the Barton area is a sister of David Kirk, county chairman.

She is councilor of Pride of Barton Council, Daughters of America, vice president of the fire company auxiliary, a member of the PTA, chaplain of Barton Unit No. 189, American Legion Auxiliary, and has served one year as president of the unit.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mr. Mowbray appealed to all residents to support this drive which is designed to raise funds to combat heart disease, America's number one killer. "A small contribution from each person can be an investment in a longer and healthier life for each of us," he said. "What better gift can we give to our children?"

OES Renews Obligations

MISS JUDY ANN MOFFATT

Valley Selects Homemaker Of Tomorrow

LONA CONING — Miss Judy Ann Moffatt has been named Valley High School's 1959 "Homemaker of Tomorrow" by earning the highest rating in the school's "Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow" Betty Crocker contest, according to Paul D. Beables, principal.

The presentation of the Homemaker of Tomorrow heart-shaped pin with home fireside heart engraving, will be made by Mr. Beable to Miss Moffatt on Wednesday, February 4, at an assembly program.

Her examination paper will also be entered in the judging for the State Homemaker of Tomorrow. She will be eligible for a $1,500 college scholarship and an educational tour of the nation's capital, Mt. Vernon, Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and New York City, for first prize; and a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica for Valley High School.

A $500 scholarship award is made to each state, to the girl chosen second highest rating in her state. State winners will also be honored at a dinner in Minneapolis, Minn., by Betty Crocker.

Winners are being chosen for 12,260 schools throughout the nation which enrolled 349,150 senior girls, the largest number of participants in the five-year history of this $106,000 scholarship program. Growth has been steady since 1955 when 187,463 girls in 8,040 schools participated.

The 1959 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced in Minneapolis April 10 at the American Table Dinner in the Leamington Hotel's "Hall of States."

The scholarship of the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be increased to $5,000. The national runner-up will receive a $4,000 grant, third place winner a $3,000 award and fourth place winner a $2,000 scholarship.

Mrs. Lola Green Is Co-Chairman

BARTON — Forrest Mowbray has been appointed chairman of the February Heart Drive for the Barton area which includes Reynolds and Moscow, according to David E. Kirk, county chairman.

Mr. Mowbray, a local merchant, has been affiliated with the Mowbray Brothers' grocery business for many years, and recently purchased the Barton Supply Company store.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and is active in Barton Volunteer Fire Company. He is presently serving as trial magistrate of the town and was recently a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital, in Frostburg.

In 1957 he served as chairman of the Heart drive in Barton. Barton Unit No. 189, American Legion Auxiliary, has been contacted by Mr. Mowbray and members have agreed to assist with the drive. He will outline his campaign and name committees at the regular meeting of the unit, February 9, at the Legion home.

Mrs. Lola Green, who has been named co-chairman of the Barton area is a sister of David Kirk, county chairman.

She is councilor of Pride of America, vice president of the fire company auxiliary, a member of the PTA, chaplain of Barton Unit No. 189, American Legion Auxiliary, and has served one year as president of the unit.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mr. Mowbray appealed to all residents to support this drive which is designed to raise funds to combat heart disease, America's number one killer. "A small contribution from each person can be an investment in a longer and healthier life for each of us," he said. "What better gift can we give to our children?"

New Cub Pack Gets Charter At Lonaconing

LONA CONING — Cub Scout Pack No. 26 of Lonaconing received their charter on Thursday, January 29, at their meeting at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 3230, Veterans of Foreign Wars home.

Wilbur Sifton, field representative for the Boy Scouts, of Keyser, presented the pack's charter to Harold Connor, cub pack committeeman, who in turn presented the charter to Calvin James, cub master.

This is the first cub pack to be organized in this community. There are six dens and six den mothers. Thirty-seven boys received their "bob cat" pins for learning their application requirements, the oath, motto, etc., as the first step along their cub path. Their next achievement will be the "wolf" award.

A "full house" of fathers and mothers of cub scouts attended the charter meeting. Awards were presented to the boys for their achievements during the program of original skits enacted by several dens. Den mothers helped with the skits which were in keeping with the January theme of "freedom of the press and news reporting and broadcasting." Next month's theme was announced to be "Carnival of Colors."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Margaret Evans' den number five. The Lonaconing Rotary Club is sponsor of the cub pack, as well as Boy Scout Troop No. 26 and the Explorer Scouts of Lonaconing.

Cub Master James will plan for their February activities to observe the "Carnival of Colors" theme, with den mothers assisting with their respective dens.

Library Club To Initiate

LONA CONING — The Library Club of Valley High School will hold a Valentine Day's party on February 12.

Initiation of club members will include Martha Anna Hardegen, Sue Lashbaugh, Marilyn Snyder, Sara Lynn Snelson, Sally Schramm, Ronnie V. Green, Shirley Warnick, Mary Lou Duckworth, Rita Kirkwood, Sandy Moffatt, Judy Lancaster, Louise Webster, Catherine Beeman and Helen Ritchey.

Parents and guests may attend the initiation and a party will follow. A skit will be presented and refreshments will be served. Mrs. Nora C. Troxell is librarian and faculty advisor of the club.

Mt. Savage PTA Meets Thursday

MT. SAVAGE—The PTA of Mt. Savage School will meet in the school auditorium Thursday, February 5. Robert Jones of Frostburg State Teachers College will speak on preparations for college entrance. Boy Scout Troop No. 50 will have a charter presentation.

Birthday tables decorated to represent each month of the year will be set up in the cafeteria. Everyone attending the meeting will be seated at the table representing the month of his birthday. Refreshments will be served.

Announce Birth

LONA CONING — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grindberg, announce the birth of a son in St. Joseph's Hospital, Dickinson, S. D. The mother is the former Miss Donna Moffatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moffatt, Jackson Street.

Auxiliary To Meet

FROSTBURG — The Uniform Rank Auxiliary, scheduled to meet at the home of Mrs. Mae Neilson, Welsh Hill, on Tuesday, has been postponed until the first Tuesday in March.

Will Armies Ever Become Obsolete?

High military authority is inclined toward the belief that future great wars, if any, will be so thoroughly mechanized and so thoroughly made subject to atomic destruction that land armies will become obsolete.

Soviet military leaders have not gone over to this formula, but this is probably because they expect to gain final world mastery by piecemeal nibbling involving small neighbor nations and by local police activities, instead of by launching gigantic atomic weapons against the major opponents of their regime.

Obviously the Russians would not plan utter destruction of victims on the fringe since they would want to capture them as nearly intact as possible because of the economic advantage. Furthermore, the Russian land army merges, almost automatically, into a police regime.

The strategic problem of the United States is quite different from that of Russia or Red China. The process of nibbling off small nations one at a time is outside the possibilities of U.S. strategy, whereas, with Russia, it has proved to be a most effective procedure.

The logical Communist strategy would be to rely upon atomic weapons to put the finishing touches on major enemies, but depend upon land armies and navies and conventional weapons for the minor ones. So both techniques are retained.

The military apparatus, somewhat paradoxically, is ideally fitted to socialism, involving a totalitarian mechanism with chain-of-command, combined with rigidly paternalistic welfare procedures. In other respects it betrays a matter-of-fact acceptance of nationalization.

There are increasing symptoms of regimentation and a corresponding loss of emphasis upon freedom. Possibly the obsolescence of land armies will bring a reversal, but at present there is not much prospect of it.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

New York Democrats

Whenever a political party suffers a signal defeat, some group sets out to steal the organization as a mechanism of political advancement, patronage and influence. That is what is happening in New York State among the Democrats at this moment. Neither party in this vast population stands for a distinctive principle; it is all about personalities.

The defeat of the Democrats headed by Governor Harriman, in the last election, was most unusual, first, because the state is growing increasingly Democratic; secondly, because Harriman had made a pretty good Governor although he is a very dull person; and thirdly, because the trend across the nation and in all adjacent states was Democratic.

The explanation for the phenomenon given by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Senator Herbert Lehman is that the defeat was a revolt against bossism and particularly against Carmine DeSapio. This is a calculated political falsehood designed to achieve an Americans for Democratic Action victory. The third member of the fighting triumvirate is Thomas K. Finletter, formerly Secretary of the Air Force under President Truman, politically ambitious but hardly known to the voters of New York.

The truth of the matter is:

1. Nelson Rockefeller proved to be a more dynamic candidate for the Governorship than Averell Harriman, who particularly on television appeared to be old and even doddering;
2. The fight against James A. Farley for U. S. Senator led by Averell Harriman and Carmine DeSapio created resentment beyond the normal partisan response to such matters. It was felt that of all the persons whose names were mentioned Farley was the most deserving, had done most for the Democratic Party and that he was most likely to win. This was no reflection on Frank Hogan, a younger man who could have another opportunity. The principal opponents of Farley were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Senator Herbert Lehman, Tom Finletter, Averell Harriman and the A. D. A. It is held, even by some of his supporters, that DeSapio erred in going along with this group, particularly now that they are blaming him for a decision which they initiated, although they desired the nomination for Finletter;
3. The organized labor union vote, which heretofore has always supported Democratic candidates for high state offices, went to Nelson Rockefeller whose association with such labor leaders as David Dubinsky has always been personally close.

The effort to unseat Carmine DeSapio on the charges of bossism makes less of an impression than similar attacks on former Tammany chieftains because Mrs. Roosevelt, Herbert Lehman and their group have been making efforts for many years to dominate the Democratic organization in New York State, with no success. Their objective is to control the large New York State delegation at national conventions and to choose gubernatorial and Senatorial candidates.

The resistance to Mrs. Roosevelt is surprisingly considerable among Democratic politicians who respect and even admire her but who cannot follow her Leftish tendencies and her support of her sons who are not generally favored. Her persistent effort to be regarded as an elder statesman leaves the practical politician cold. He would like to pay homage to her as a great lady without wondering about what she has up her sleeve. It is known that she dislikes DeSapio because he and another Democratic county leader prevented Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. from being nominated for Governor of New York in 1954, getting the nomination for Averell Harriman. Politicians do not like to see a split in their party growing out of personal vindictiveness.

Senator Herbert Lehman is respected for his years, his character and his standing in the community. But it is generally felt that his day is done and that his influence would be greater if he were not so closely associated with the Leftish A. D. A. which is not popular among New York Democrats. Herbert Lehman's influence among the Democratic leadership is not very telling.

The matter is further complicated by the ambition of Adlai Stevenson to run for President for the third time. The Democrats are afraid of a William Jennings Bryan reaction to a two-time loser. They would prefer a fresh name. Stevenson is popular in New York only among the A. D. A. and certain intellectual groups, but he never made much of an appeal to the rank and file. The attempt to get the New York delegation for Adlai Stevenson for the 1960 convention is bound to fail no matter what happens to Carmine DeSapio.

'C'mon - Why Not Take Down The Fence?'

Solution To Integration Problem: Local Option

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Eight Southern Senators have taken a significant step to refute the notion that the South believes in lawless ways. Senator Herman E. Talmadge, of Georgia, Democrat, has introduced a proposed Amendment to the Federal Constitution which is intended to give the states exclusive control of their school systems.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with this proposal as a solution of the tragic conditions brought about by the segregation-integration controversy in the courts, the fact is that the Southern Senators have come forward with a legitimate means of overcoming what they consider the ill effects of the 1954 "desegregation" decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The big question, however, is whether the proposed Amendment, when analyzed, does really provide the solution desired by the South. Senator Talmadge rightly says:

"The closing of any school anywhere is a lamentable occurrence. The closing of a public-school system is a terrible tragedy. The destruction of public education in an entire region of our nation would be an unparalleled catastrophe. Yet a realistic appraisal of the facts of the matter affords no conclusion but that that will be the inevitable result of binding the citizens of the South in the chains of circumstance now being forged around them. And the real losers of such an eventuality unfortunately will be those who have the least to say about it — the school children of the South and their parents."

But the Amendment which Senator Talmadge offers does not delineate the fundamental Constitutional right of the parents to decide for themselves how their children shall be educated. The text of the proposed Amendment is as follows:

"Administrative control of any public school, public educational institution, or public educational system operated by any state or by any political or other subdivision thereof, shall be vested exclusively in such state and subdivision and nothing contained in this Constitution shall be construed to deny to the residents thereof the right to determine for themselves the manner in which any such school, institution or system is administered by such state and subdivision."

It would be easy enough, however, for the Supreme Court to rule that even today nothing in the Constitution interferes with the right of local school authorities to "administer" the educational institutions themselves and that discrimination on the basis of race or color or creed is not an "administrative" matter at all but a question of citizenship rights.

What needs to be done, of course, is to include in the proposed Amendment an affirmation of the right of parents — the citizens themselves — to determine what kind of educational institutions they wish their children to attend. The individual may discriminate but the state cannot. This means, under present conditions, two school systems or two sets of classes within the same school buildings or separate buildings.

Obviously there are parents who do not mind seeing their children enrolled in "integrated" schools. Other parents want their children in segregated schools. A Constitutional Amendment that spells out the rights of parents and gives a discretionary right to the state legislatures or local school boards to set up a dual system is the only method that will assure "freedom of choice" for the parents.

The tuition-grant system offers another alternative, but, in the absence of some new Constitutional authority, this cannot mean any quasi-public school system but a 100 per cent-private system.

The school controversy is not likely to be over for decades to come. The experience with the 18th Amendment and its subsequent repeal by the adoption of the 21st Amendment is an example of how a basic issue of sociological reform is finally handled by the American people. The question of whether drinking is morally right or wrong has not been settled yet by the provisions of the Constitution, but the right of each locality to control liquor sales now has been affirmed as constitutional.

Precisely this kind of solution is inevitable in the school controversy and, while the Talmadge Amendment has that broad aim, it needs to be specifically amended to transfer the power of choice to the citizens, who can then demand of the states the type of schools they want their children to attend. A dual system is the only answer not only for the South but for many cities in the North where an increasing Negro population has merely served to introduce evasive schemes of residential gerrymandering to achieve something for which the Southern people, when they try it, are denounced as attempting a "lawless defiance" of the Constitution.

Discretion In Exercise Important After 50

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Every winter, hundreds of men develop heart attacks after wielding snow shovels or pushing stalled autos. The majority are over 50 and there is a good possibility the old ticker was not normal before they exerted themselves.

Most of these individuals have narrowed coronary arteries because of arteriosclerosis. The condition is not severe enough to interfere with the action of the heart under ordinary circumstances but the strain is too great when the organ is asked to double its output to supply over-worked muscles with blood.

Shoveling snow and pushing automobiles is hard work, especially for a person who is not accustomed to such exertion. Cold air adds to the burden, by constricting the arteries and causing a further reduction in blood flow. The young, the healthy, and the fit can shovel as much as they want, but men in the forties must be moderate. After 50, discretion is a must.

The best plan is to winterize the heart at the beginning of the season. Have the organ checked by the family physician, and if tests show it is in tiptop shape, treat shoveling like any other exercise.

Those who are in trim — accustomed to physical activity — tolerate more exertion than do the obese and the men who never move a muscle if they can help it. Don't shovel snow to the point of exhaustion — quit immediately if it causes shortness of breath or chest pain.

Running or walking against a cold wind aggravates an ailing heart. In a person who suffers from angina pectoris, chest pain develops much sooner than usual. The same applies to walking uphill or an incline in subzero weather. Slippery sidewalks are a jinx for many old folk. Falling may result in a fractured hip and weeks or more of hospitalization. When there is ice or snow on the ground, and you contemplate going to the store, ask yourself "Is this trip really necessary?" It takes only a small patch of ice to do the damage.

RARE GROWTHS

J. R. writes: I had a carcinoma growth removed and the surgeon said it was a rare and interesting condition. What makes it interesting?

REPLY

It is interesting not only for its rarity but because of the reactions on the body. These tumors produce serotonin, which affects the smooth muscles of the body and dilates the blood vessels of the skin. The victims experience transient episodes of flushing of the skin along with attacks of shortness of breath, wheezing, a hot and tingling sensation of the hands and feet, and abdominal cramping. Leakage of the heart and enlarged liver may occur when large amounts of serotonin are present. The outlook is good when the lesion is recognized and removed.

Mikoyan Couldn't Get Steel Pipe Here, Will Buy It From Germany

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Anastas Mikoyan, the fast-touring Soviet Deputy Premier, is going to get the steel pipe which the State Department denied him, after all. And guess where he's going to get it? From West Germany.

When crossing the USA, Mikoyan mentioned to American steel men that he wanted to buy around $300,000,000 worth of steel pipe, which is not a small order. But while American businessmen were licking their chops over such an order, the Defense Department in Washington was getting worried. And when the Deputy Premier of Russia met with Deputy Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, Dillon flatly said no.

This was why Mikoyan hit the ceiling.

However, he is now arranging to buy the same pipe from West German businessmen. Ironically, it was Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany who kept bombarding Foster Dulles against any rapprochement between the United States and Russia over Berlin and even sent a special emissary to Washington to keep an eye on the sometimes changeable Mr. Dulles.

Secret Gas Strategy

Congressman Oren Harris, the diligent Arkansas Democrat, has not been idle at this session of Congress. His name has been in the headlines probing Bernard Goldfine and Sherman Adams, but he doesn't want any publicity on what he's doing now.

What he's doing is to button-hole 17 Congressmen on the Interstate Commerce Committee, over which he rules, to vote for his natural gas bill. He wants them to line up for the bill and get it out of committee without hearings.

In the past, northern Mayors have trekked to Washington to oppose the gas bill, and their public testimony has stirred up nation-wide interest. Mayors Dilworth of Philadelphia, Wagner of New York, Daley of Chicago, Miriani of Detroit, and Celebrezze of Cleveland have mobilized public opinion against higher gas rates to their cities.

Now, Harris wants to avoid public hearings and slip the gas bill out of committee without any fanfare. Then with the powerful help of Speaker Sam Rayburn he hopes to zip through the full House of Representatives.

Humphrey's Finance

Fifty-six well-heeled Democrats met in a private room of Club 21 in New York City last week to give the once-over to Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota as a presidential candidate. The idea was that if they liked Hubert they would dig down in their jeans to finance his campaign.

Max Schuster, the New York publisher, joked that it would be an eight-hour luncheon. He remembered the eight-hour session between Senator Humphrey and Khrushchev.

The Senator from Minnesota spoke, however, only 22 minutes, then answered tough questions for half an hour. The New Yorkers seemed to like him. Most of the group had raised money for Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956, and some indicated they would ante up for Humphrey in 1960.

Interesting Omission

There was one very interesting omission from the President's message to Congress asking for a new labor law.

Officials of the Labor Department who prepared material for Ike's labor message were surprised that this particular set of figures was dropped from the message.

They had sent the White House a survey on labor productivity, specifically ordered by the White House. The survey was quite revealing. It showed that most industrial workers had increased their production by about 6 per cent in the past year.

In other words, the average worker's output was proportionately about as great as his increase in earnings.

However, the President had recently accused labor leaders of causing inflation by asking wage increases, so the labor study was left out of the message to Congress.

Republican Finances

GOP chairman Meade Adorn called his top aides into a secret session recently to untangle the Grand Old Party's purse strings.

Republican candidates are grumbling over the way the money was handled during the last campaign. They couldn't beg or borrow money from the national organization until the last five weeks. Some candidates actually didn't receive financial help until AFTER the election.

They are particularly sore at Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, the Congressional campaign chairman, who raised thousands of dollars from wealthy contributors, then spent much of it defeating Gov. George Leader for the Senate in his home state, Pennsylvania.

California Republicans are also complaining that the Rockefeller family spent a fortune on Nelson's New York campaign, but refused to send a red cent to Senator Knowland in California.

Adorn asked his staff for suggestions on how to soothe the angry uproar. National finance chairman Spencer Olin of Olin-Mathieson, one of the nation's major industrialists, suggested signing up the Republican fat cats for monthly contributions. This should fill the GOP treasury to overflowing, he said, far ahead of the 1960 campaign.

Ab Hermann, the National Committee's executive director, urged setting aside a sinking fund for Congressional candidates. He proposed that the money be earmarked so it could be used for no other purpose. The committee could raise enough, he predicted, to guarantee each Republican candidate $10,000. The only final decision, however, was that the Republican Party should go into the next campaign well heeled.

Terror tends to dissipate if one understands it. I cannot understand my terror of dentistry. Someone mentions a filling or an extraction and little diamonds of moisture show up on my palms. I see a man with a coat buttoned up the side of his neck smiling at me through rimless glasses and talking cheerfully of his children as his nurse lines up the instruments of torture on a sterile napkin.

At this point, I am dead. My body sinks slowly in the chair until the back of my neck is on the seat. The doctor assures me that the only thing I have to fear is teeth itself and I nod and do not believe a word he says.

There is no lie so base as a sign that says: "Painless dentistry." They have been hanging outside offices for at least a century, and it is my considered opinion that they should have hanged some of the dentists.

No profession has advanced less than dentistry. The difference between Benjamin Franklin's bridgework, and mine, is not great. The methods of oral surgery have progressed somewhat, but the problems of the human mouth remain essentially the same and so too do the corrective measures.

I have some spurious teeth on the upper side and there was some recent pain so I went to see Dr. Milton Ross, a cheerful and competent man who lives across the river from me. I sat in his office watching the little fish in his waiting room tank. They worked their little gums incessantly.

The nurse, Mrs. Edythe Larsen, is dark and trim and sympathetic. She starts to wring her hands for me when I say hello. Well, Dr. Ross opened my trap, adjusted an opaque light like the kind the Russians use for extracting confessions, and examined, probed, felt, rubbed and took X-rays. I can go through this type of thing pretty well — only half dead.

The doctor said it seemed to him that I was growing a third set of choppers. When my sympathetic daughter Gayle heard this, she nodded glumly and said: "I was going to get two fancy teething rings for the twins. I'll make it three."

Two of the bony eminences had to come out at once. I will spare you the details. Right now, I have stitches in my mouth and, when I grin, the ends come out and I look like an old tabby. Rather, I feel that they are coming out. The thing that keeps me going in this world of oral masochism is the knowledge that Dr. Ross is going to make me look great when it is all over. Of course I may not last until it is all over. If I don't, let me go out grinning, please.

Over a period of years, I have sat in a lot of waiting rooms. I'm a trained observer, and it's nice to know that I'm not the only one who perspires. I've seen big strong men tap their fingers on the arm rests of chairs inter-

But the Amendment which Senator Talmadge offers does not delineate the fundamental Constitutional right of the parents to decide for themselves how their children shall be educated. The text of the proposed Amendment is as follows:

"Administrative control of any public school, public educational institution, or public educational system operated by any state or by any political or other subdivision thereof, shall be vested exclusively in such state and subdivision and nothing contained in this Constitution shall be construed to deny to the residents thereof the right to determine for themselves the manner in which any such school, institution or system is administered by such state and subdivision."

It would be easy enough, however, for the Supreme Court to rule that even today nothing in the Constitution interferes with the right of local school authorities to "administer" the educational institutions themselves and that discrimination on the basis of race or color or creed is not an "administrative" matter at all but a question of citizenship rights.

What needs to be done, of course, is to include in the proposed Amendment an affirmation of the right of parents — the citizens themselves — to determine what kind of educational institutions they wish their children to attend. The individual may discriminate but the state cannot. This means, under present conditions, two school systems or two sets of classes within the same school buildings or separate buildings.

Obviously there are parents who do not mind seeing their children enrolled in "integrated"

Mikoyan Couldn't Get Steel Pipe Here, Will Buy It From Germany

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Anastas Mikoyan, the fast-touring Soviet Deputy Premier, is going to get the steel pipe which the State Department denied him, after all. And guess where he's going to get it? From West Germany.

When crossing the USA, Mikoyan mentioned to American steel men that he wanted to buy around $300,000,000 worth of steel pipe, which is not a small order. But while American businessmen were licking their chops over such an order, the Defense Department in Washington was getting worried. And when the Deputy Premier of Russia met with Deputy Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, Dillon flatly said no.

This was why Mikoyan hit the ceiling.

However, he is now arranging to buy the same pipe from West German businessmen. Ironically, it was Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany who kept bombarding Foster Dulles against any rapprochement between the United States and Russia over Berlin and even sent a special emissary to Washington to keep an eye on the sometimes changeable Mr. Dulles.

Secret Gas Strategy

Congressman Oren Harris, the diligent Arkansas Democrat, has not been idle at this session of Congress. His name has been in the headlines probing Bernard Goldfine and Sherman Adams, but he doesn't want any publicity on what he's doing now.

What he's doing is to button-hole 17 Congressmen on the Interstate Commerce Committee, over which he rules, to vote for his natural gas bill. He wants them to line up for the bill and get it out of committee without hearings.

In the past, northern Mayors have trekked to Washington to oppose the gas bill, and their public testimony has stirred up nation-wide interest. Mayors Dilworth of Philadelphia, Wagner of New York, Daley of Chicago, Miriani of Detroit, and Celebrezze of Cleveland have mobilized public opinion against higher gas rates to their cities.

Now, Harris wants to avoid public hearings and slip the gas bill out of committee without any fanfare. Then with the powerful help of Speaker Sam Rayburn he hopes to zip through the full House of Representatives.

Humphrey's Finance

Fifty-six well-heeled Democrats met in a private room of Club 21 in New York City last week to give the once-over to Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota as a presidential candidate. The idea was that if they liked Hubert they would dig down in their jeans to finance his campaign.

Max Schuster, the New York publisher, joked that it would be an eight-hour luncheon. He remembered the eight-hour session between Senator Humphrey and Khrushchev.

The Senator from Minnesota spoke, however, only 22 minutes, then answered tough questions for half an hour. The New Yorkers seemed to like him. Most of the group had raised money for Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956, and some indicated they would ante up for Humphrey in 1960.

Interesting Omission

There was one very interesting omission from the President's message to Congress asking for a new labor law.

Officials of the Labor Department who prepared material for Ike's labor message were surprised that this particular set of figures was dropped from the message.

They had sent the White House a survey on labor productivity, specifically ordered by the White House. The survey was quite revealing. It showed that most industrial workers had increased their production by about 6 per cent in the past year.

In other words, the average worker's output was proportionately about as great as his increase in earnings.

However, the President had recently accused labor leaders of causing inflation by asking wage increases, so the labor study was left out of the message to Congress.

Republican Finances

GOP chairman Meade Alcorn called his top aides into a secret session recently to untangle the Grand Old Party's purse strings.

Republican candidates are grumbling over the way the money was handled during the last campaign. They couldn't beg or borrow money from the national organization until the last five weeks. Some candidates actually didn't receive financial help until AFTER the election.

They are particularly sore at Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, the Congressional campaign chairman, who raised thousands of dollars from wealthy contributors, then spent much of it defeating Gov. George Leader for the Senate in his home state, Pennsylvania.

California Republicans are also complaining that the Rockefeller family spent a fortune on Nelson's New York campaign, but refused to send a red cent to Senator Knowland in California.

Alcorn asked his staff for suggestions on how to soothe the angry uproar. National finance chairman Spencer Olin of Olin-Mathieson, one of the nation's major industrialists, suggested signing up the Republican fat cats for monthly contributions. This should fill the GOP treasury to overflowing, he said, far ahead of the 1960 campaign.

Ab Hermann, the National Committee's executive director, urged setting aside a sinking fund for Congressional candidates. He proposed that the money be earmarked so it could be used for no other purpose. The committee could raise enough, he predicted, to guarantee each Republican candidate $10,000. The only final decision, however, was that the Republican Party should go into the next campaign well heeled.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Terror tends to dissipate if one understands it. I cannot understand my terror of dentistry. Someone mentions a filling or an extraction and little diamonds of moisture show up on my palms.

I see a man with a coat buttoned up the side of his neck smiling at me through rimless glasses and talking cheerfully of his children as his nurse lines up the instruments of torture on a sterile napkin.

At this point, I am dead. My body sinks slowly in the chair until the back of my neck is on the seat. The doctor assures me that the only thing I have to fear is teeth itself and I nod and do not believe a word he says.

There is no lie so base as a sign that says: "Painless dentistry." They have been hanging outside offices for at least a century, and it is my considered opinion that they should have hanged some of the dentists.

No profession has advanced less than dentistry. The difference between Benjamin Franklin's bridgework, and mine, is not great. The methods of oral surgery have progressed somewhat, but the problems of the human mouth remain essentially the same and so too do the corrective measures.

I have some spurious teeth on the upper side and there was some recent pain so I went to see Dr. Milton Ross, a cheerful and competent man who lives across the river from me. I sat in his office watching the little fish in his waiting room tank. They worked their little gums incessantly.

The nurse, Mrs. Edythe Larsen, is dark and trim and sympathetic. She starts to wring her hands for me when I say hello. Well, Dr. Ross opened my trap, adjusted an opaque light like the kind the Russians use for extracting confessions, and examined, probed, felt, rubbed and took X-rays. I can go through this type of thing pretty well—only half dead.

The doctor said it seemed to him that I was growing a third set of choppers. When my sympathetic daughter Gayle heard this, she nodded glumly and said: "I was going to get two fancy teething rings for the twins. I'll make it three."

Two of the bony eminences had to come out at once. I will spare you the details. Right now, I have stitches in my mouth and, when I grin, the ends come out and I look like an old tabby. Rather, I feel that they are coming out. The thing that keeps me going in this world of oral masochism is the knowledge that Dr. Ross is going to make me look great when it is all over. Of course I may not last until it is all over. If I don't, let me go out grinning, please.

Over a period of years, I have sat in a lot of waiting rooms. I'm a trained observer, and it's nice to know that I'm not the only one who perspires. I've seen big strong men tap their fingers on the arm rests of chairs inter-minably and, when the nurse nodded to them, their faces quivered like bowls of mint jelly.

I knew a medical doctor who wouldn't take care of his teeth under any circumstances. He worked himself down to some brown stubs. He looked bad. "In my case," he said sadly, "it's even worse. My brother is a dentist."

My father, on the other end, appeared to have no trouble going to a dentist. He just hitched up his pants and went. Once, when I was a child, I remember that he had to have a tooth extracted and he refused novocaine. "Just pull it, doc," he said.

The dentist got the tooth clamped and held on tight and twisted and my father twisted with him and they practically wrestled around the room. The dentist won. When the tooth came out, it had a spur of jawbone fused to it. I thought my father was the bravest man in the world. In later years, I suspected that he might have stopped at Bill Lucid's place for a few before the bravery.

My mother-in-law was an anti-dentist. As she grew older, she permitted the teeth to fall out. She ended with about four lowers and could still eat steak. But she was unusual in many ways. She used to buy her spectacles from a counter in the five-and-ten. . . .

RARE GROWTHS

J. R. writes: I had a carcinoma growth removed and the surgeon said it was a rare and interesting condition. What makes it interesting?

REPLY

It is interesting not only for its rarity but because of the reactions on the body. These tumors produce serotonin, which affects the smooth muscles of the body and dilates the blood vessels of the skin. The victims experience transient episodes of flushing of the skin along with attacks of shortness of breath, wheezing, a hot and tingling sensation of the hands and feet, and abdominal cramping. Leakage of the heart and enlarged liver may occur when large amounts of serotonin are present. The outlook is good when the lesion is recognized and removed.

COLLAR BUTTON

W. L. writes: I have an infection on the hand which the doctor says is shaped like a collar button. What is it?

REPLY

A lesion that resembles a boil on the outside but connects with a larger and deeper abscess inside via a small stem. These infections must be drained to effect cure.

REPLY

Eczema is an allergic condition that usually is inherited. The type of allergic reaction in the parents may differ from that in the child. In your case, it causes hay fever; and in your infant's, the skin is affected. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on infantile eczema.

Dapper Dans Honor Geatz, Cavanaugh, 340 Attend Dinner

Many Sports Notables At 11th Affair

Plaque For Geatz, Unable To Attend, Accepted By Father

Three hundred and forty persons, including many celebrities of the sports world, attended the eleventh annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club last evening at St. Mary's Church Hall, Oldtown Road, where honors were bestowed on Phil Geatz, LaSalle High School graduate, for his outstanding performances as regular right end of the University of Miami (Fla.) Hurricanes for the past two seasons, and John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High School mentor, who wound up his 30-year coaching career after his Sentinels won the 1958 Maryland State Class "A" basketball championship.

Abrams Presents Plaque

Phil Geatz was unable to attend and in his absence his father, Norman F. "Cotton" Geatz Sr., accepted the Dapper Dan plaque which goes annually to the athlete who does the most to publicize Cumberland, in his behalf. Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and national president of the Dapper Dans, presented the plaque to Mr. Geatz. In a brief acceptance speech, Mr. Geatz thanked the Dapper Dan Club and said the selection of his son for the award made him feel "mighty proud."

Howard "Farmer" Northcraft, vice president of the Dapper Dan Club, presented the "Special Achievement Award" to Coach Cavanaugh, who lauded the local organization, for taking hold of the youngsters of the community and "having something for them to do."

Mal Alberts, sports director of Station WIC-TV, Pittsburgh, served as master of ceremonies and did a commendable job.

Among those introduced were Edmund Hoey, former Cumberland Recreation Department director and now with the National Bowling Council, Washington, D. C.; Mike Nixon, newly appointed head coach of the Washington Redskins of the National Football League; Meyer (K. O.) Christner, former heavyweight boxer; William P. Hahn, Fort Hill High School coach, who had undefeated teams in 1957 and 1958, and who introduced all of the members of the 1958 all-city scholastic grid team; Dick Groat, captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Fay Walton Keiser, one-time middleweight boxer; Lennie Dawson, former Purdue grid star and now assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers; and Rev. Bruce Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church.

Others Introduced

Others introduced included "Chuck" Tanner, of the Chicago Cubs; Frank Muster, one-time Lonaconing pitching star; Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, the major league Hall of Famer from Lonaconing; John Rokisky, former All-America griddle at Duquesne, who now is associated with the Queen City Brewing Company; Ernie Sesto, Pittsburgh boxing referee; Edward Boyle, district attorney of Allegheny County, Pa.; Paul Smith, former Pittsburgh outfielder, now the property of the Chicago Cubs; Whitey Dovel, assistant football coach at the University of Maryland and Frank Toomey, new backfield coach at Maryland, who came from Florida State with new head coach Tom Nugent; "Count" Phil Petrucci, of McKeesport, Pa., who was introduced as a "newsman from Sicily"; Art DeCarlo, of the Baltimore Colts, football champions of the National Football League; and Bill Criswell, formerly of Cumberland, now a broadcaster at Wheeling, W. Va.

Rep. John R. Foley, of Maryland Sixth Congressional District; Myron O'Brisky, concessionaire at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh; Fred Shaffer, Chicago Cubs' scout; Don Bailey, catching prospect of the San Francisco Giants; William V. Keegan, chairman of the local Dapper Dans' celebrities committee; I. Elmer Ecker, of Pittsburgh; and Dave Cassell, 11, who represented the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children, and was presented an autographed baseball and a football signed by the members of the Look Magazine All-America team, and Edward Collier, Dapper Dans president, also were introduced.

Peter J. Carpentier introduced representatives of the Queen City Brewing Company and the Cumberland Brewing Company. James S. Getty, state's attorney; Sheriff Paul Haberlein, Fred Anderson, magistrate of the Juvenile Court; Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney; and Mayor J. Edwin Keech. The mayor delivered the address of welcome and congratulated the Dapper Dans for the "wonderful work they are doing in Cumberland."

Proceeds of the annual dinner will go toward the benefit of the vocation and Rev. Charles Bogan, Allegheny County League for pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Crippled Children.

of Maryland, who came from Florida State with new head coach Tom Nugent; "Chuck" Tanner, of New Castle, Pa., outfielder of the Chicago Cubs; Ronnie Kline, Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher; "Whitey" Dovel, who has been retained as assistant grid coach at the University of Maryland, and Dick Groat, captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Willie Hoppe Is Taken By Death At Age Of 71

Former Billiard Champ Dies After Lingering Illness

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Willie Hoppe, whose name was synonymous with billiards almost from the day he mounted a wooden box to reach the table in the rear of his father's barber shop, died Sunday after a long illness. He was 71.

He was in St. Francis Hospital at Miami Beach for the last four months but, as late as Saturday night, was able to receive visitors from the Washington Redskins of the National Football League; Meyer (K. O.) Christner, former heavyweight boxer; William P. Hahn, Fort Hill High School coach, who had undefeated teams in 1957 and 1958, and who introduced all of the members of the 1958 all-city scholastic grid team; Dick Groat, captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Fay Walton Keiser, one-time middleweight boxer; Lennie Dawson, former Purdue grid star and now assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers; and Rev. Bruce Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church.

He gave his last exhibition two years ago in Chicago.

He was quiet, unassuming and always immaculate in dress. Poised, self-assured and courteous to friend and foe alike, the man who ruled the green baize world for so many years looked more like a man of the church than a part of the kaleidoscopic sports world of which he was a definite part for nearly half a century.

Played At White House

Yet, Willie, who began his career by touring dirty, smoke-filled pool rooms of bygone days, so dignified the game that he drew Metropolitan Opera stars, ranking members of world society, kings and princes to see him weave a spell with a cue. He probably was the only billiard player ever to give an exhibition in the White House. He played before President Taft in 1911.

Willie reached the heights in headline competition before World War I, declined somewhat during the "Golden Twenties" and then came back, recognized as the greatest three-cushion player in the world.

He was crowned 18.1 headline champion in 1906 at the age of 18, ruled the 18.2 world from 1910-1920 won the title again in 1923-24, was unchallenged as the 14.1 king from 1914 and tried the seldom-played and difficult 71.2 successfully in 1938.

As the exacting game of billiards took its toll of top notch players, Hoppe turned to three cushions.

Won 20 Straight

Although always a threat, he was unable to win the world title until 1940 when he ran off 20 straight victories—still believed to be a record of tournament play.

A year later, he collapsed while playing a challenge match with young Jake Schaefer, but a month later rebounded from a case of pneumonia and retained his title with the loss of only one game out of 18. The 1942 round robin championship saw him come through again, winning eight out of nine contests.

A great player at the age of 6, Hoppe never enjoyed a normal boyhood. Baseball was his favorite sport but he never dared play it for fear of injuring his hands. But years later he became a rabid fan and often took a chance of injury by working out with the New York Giants.

He was only 12 when he beat such established stars as "Ora Morningstar and Tom Gallagher. Two years later he defeated the great Maurice Vigneaux of France, in an 181 match that attracted worldwide attention.

Church, pronounced the benediction.

Proceeds of the annual dinner will go toward the benefit of the vocation and Rev. Charles Bogan, Allegheny County League for pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Crippled Children.

Mountaineers Play Pitt, Holy Cross Quints This Week

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia's Mountaineers, ranked 10th in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches, have a full week's work ahead of them.

They must find a way to stop Pitt All-American Don Hennon Tuesday night and on Saturday they make their national television debut against Holy Cross.

This week's games mark the return of the Mountaineers, now 16-3, to their home court after playing five of their last six games on the road.

The Panthers dropped a 75-66 contest to Duke Saturday at Durham but Hennon still managed to come through with 31 points and the daring 5-foot-8 fireball from Wampum, Pa., is averaging about 23 points per game this season.

The long series between the two rivals stands at 42 victories for the Mountaineers and 48 for Pitt.

Saturday's TV game is scheduled at 3 p.m. and will be the first meeting between West Virginia and Holy Cross. The Crusaders were beaten 64-62 Saturday by New York University.

Schayes Scores 50 As Syracuse Loses

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran Dolph Schayes scored 50 points—a personal high—in a vain effort Sunday as the Boston Celtics rallied to take a 139-137 televised National Basketball Assn. decision from Syracuse in overtime.

The Celtics battled back from a nine-point deficit late in the game to tie it, 127-all, on Bob Cousy's hook shot with one minute remaining. Bill Sharman collected seven points in the five-minute overtime session.

Schayes' previous high was 47 points against the Philadelphia Warriors two years ago. Schayes topped all scorers while Cousy hit 32 for Boston.

The two teams set a Garden record for total points, 11 points more than the previous mark of 265.

Cards Purchase Billy Harrell

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals baseball club Sunday announced it had bought Billy Harrell, utility infielder-outfielder, from Cleveland at an undisclosed price.

However, it was estimated that the Cardinals paid a $20,000 waiver price for the 30-year-old 6'1 1/2" 180 pounder.

Harrell played in 100 games for the Indians last year, hit .218 and stole 12 bases.

Musials Have Girl

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stan Musial Sunday was proud father of a seven-pound, eight-ounce girl.

Mrs. Musial gave birth to the child Saturday at Barnes Hospital, passing the halfway mark in signing players for the 1959 season with the inking of contracts by children, Dick, 18, Geraldine, 14, pitcher Stan Williams and first baseman Steve Bilko.

Marty Furgol Cops San Diego Open Tourney

Earns $2,800 Prize, Mike Souchak 2nd

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Marty Furgol, veteran shot-maker from Lemont, Ill., and a non-winner since 1954, captured the $20,000 San Diego Open golf tournament Sunday with a brilliant come-from-behind performance as big Mike Souchak blew a two-stroke lead on the final seven holes.

Furgol, who was tied for 34th place after the first two rounds then coming along with a 64 Saturday, had a 69 Sunday to win with a 72-hole score of 274. He picked up a check for $2,800. His rounds were 70-71-64-69.

There was a five-way tie for second place between Souchak; Bill Casper, Apple Valley, Calif.; Dave Ragan, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn., and Bo Winger, Odessa, Tex., each with 276.

Furgol, 41, and a consistent winner on the tournament for a decade, hadn't captured a title or come very close since he won the Celebrities event in Washington, D.C., in 1954. He is no relation to Ed Furgol, former National Open champion.

Furgol had nines of 34-35 for his 69 Sunday while Souchak was 35-38-73.

Those who tied at 275 each collected $1,325.

Bob Harris, a long-shot from Winnetka, Ill., finished with a fine 69 for 276 and $900.

Tied with 277 were Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto, Calif.; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla.; Bob Duden, Oswego, Ore., and Jackie Burke, Houston, Tex.

In recording the triumph, Furgol was 14 strokes under par for the distance and his 64 Saturday was the low round of the tournament.

Hoak Is Surprised Over Thomas Trade

COUDERSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Third baseman Don Hoak, traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates by the Cincinnati Redlegs in a seven-player deal, says he's surprised the Pirates gave up slugger Frank Thomas in the trade.

"I was really surprised to see the Pirates get rid of Thomas," Hoak told The Associated Press from his home. "I didn't think they'd ever trade him."

Wiffi Smith Wins

MIAMI (UPI)—Freckle-faced Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich., won a "sudden death" playoff Sunday to gain the Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association's mixed pro-am championship.

The 21-year-old Michigan golfer sank a two-foot putt for a par 4 on the first extra hole to defeat Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., who missed a six-foot putt.

Both players finished the regulation 18 holes with a 220 total, round leader, was third with a 279. Miss Smith shooting a six-under Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, women's-par 71 in the final round Fla., trailed by another stroke for of the 54-hole event. Mrs. Rawls carded a 73.

Zach Wheat, Ex-Dodger, Elected To Hall Of Fame

Outfielder Played 19 Seasons And Had Swat Mark Of .317

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Zach Wheat, 70-year-old former Brooklyn outfielder, Sunday was elected unanimously to baseball's Hall of Fame by the committee on veterans. He will be formally inducted July 20 at Cooperstown, N. Y.

A powerful line drive hit in his days at Ebbets Field, Wheat built a lifetime batting average of .317 for 19 seasons in the major leagues. He played with Brooklyn from 1909 to 1926 and finished his career with the Philadelphia A's in 1927, after drawing his release from the Dodgers.

Now living at a settlement called Sunrise Beach, near Versailles, Mo., the former farmboy rents cabins to hunters, fishermen and vacationers in the Ozarks.

When contacted by The Associated Press Wheat said, "of course, this makes me mighty proud. In baseball, it's the greatest thing you can accomplish. It makes me feel pretty good."

Although he has been absent from the big league scene for over 30 years, Wheat still travels about 100 miles to Kansas City to see an occasional game.

The veterans' committee elects every other year from men who have been inactive for 30 years. On alternative years, the 10-year members, of the Baseball Writers' Assn. vote on players active within 30 years, but out of the game at least five years. The writers didn't elect anybody last year. The veterans picked Joe McCarthy and Wahoo Sam Crawford in 1957. Wheat is the 84th member of the Hall of Fame.

A list of about 45 names was suggested to the 11-man veterans' committee, but only Wheat drew serious consideration.

"The best outfielder Brooklyn ever had" was the comment of Branch Rickey, veteran baseball man and Pittsburgh executive who served on the selection committee.

Wheat hit .300 or better in 14 of his 18 years at Brooklyn, leading the league in 1918 with .335. Although he batted .375 in 1923 and again in 1924 and hit .359 in 1925 he lost the batting title each time to Rogers Hornsby. He was a left-handed batter.

Although the Dodgers have had many fine hitters in the last 30 years, Wheat still holds the club records for games played with 2,318, at bats 8,859, hits 2,804, singles 2,038, doubles 464, triples 171, total bases 4,003 and extra base hits 766.

Dapper Dans Honor Geatz, Cavanaugh, 340 Attend Dinner

Many Sports Notables At 11th Affair

Plaque For Geatz, Unable To Attend, Accepted By Father

Three hundred and forty persons, including many celebrities of the sports world, attended the eleventh annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club last evening at St. Mary's Church Hall, Oldtown Road, where honors were bestowed on Phil Geatz, LaSalle High School graduate, for his outstanding performances as regular right end of the University of Miami (Fla.) Hurricanes for the past two seasons, and John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High School mentor, who wound up his 30-year coaching career after his Sentinels won the 1958 Maryland State Class "A" basketball championship.

Abrams Presents Plaque

Phil Geatz was unable to attend and in his absence his father, Norman F. "Cotton" Geatz Sr., accepted the Dapper Dan plaque which goes annually to the athlete who does the most to publicize Cumberland, in his behalf. Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and national president of the Dapper Dans, presented the plaque to Mr. Geatz. In a brief acceptance speech, Mr. Geatz thanked the Dapper Dan Club and said the selection of his son for the award made him feel "mighty proud."

Howard "Farmer" Northcraft, vice president of the Dapper Dan Club, presented the "Special Achievement Award" to Coach Cavanaugh, who lauded the local organization, for taking hold of the youngsters of the community and "having something for them to do."

Mal Alberts, sports director of Station WHIC-TV, Pittsburgh, served as master of ceremonies and did a commendable job.

Among those introduced were Edmund Hoey, former Cumberland Recreation Department director and now with the National Bowling Council, Washington, D. C.; Mike Nixon, newly appointed head coach of the Washington Redskins of the National Football League; Meyer (K. O.) Christner, former heavyweight boxer; William P. Hahn, Fort Hill High School coach, who had undefeated teams in 1957 and 1958, and who introduced all of the members of the 1958 all-city scholastic grid team; Dick Groat, captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Fay Walton Keiser, one-time middleweight boxer; Lennie Dawson, former Purdue grid star and now assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Rev. Bruce Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church.

Others Introduced

Others introduced included "Chuck" Tanner, of the Chicago Cubs; Frank Muster, one-time Lonaconing pitching star; Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, the major league Hall of Famer from Lonaconing; John Rokisky, former All-America griddle at Duquesne, who now is associated with the Queen City Brewing Company; Ernie Sesto, Pittsburgh boxing referee; Edward Boyle, district attorney of Allegheny County, Pa.; Paul Smith, former Pittsburgh outfielder, now the property of the Chicago Cubs; Whitey Dovell, assistant football coach at the University of Maryland and Frank Toomey, new backfield coach at Maryland, who came from Florida State with new head coach Tom Nugent; "Count" Phil Petrucci, of McKeesport, Pa., who was introduced as a "newsman from Sicily"; Art DeCarlo, of the Baltimore Colts, football champions of the National Football League; and Bill Criswell, formerly of Cumberland, now a broadcaster at Wheeling, W. Va.

Rep. John R. Foley, of Maryland Sixth Congressional District; Myron O'Brisky, concessionaire at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh; Don Shaffer, Chicago Cubs' scout; Don Bailey, catching prospect of the San Francisco Giants; William V. Keegan, chairman of the local Dapper Dans' celebrities committee; I. Elmer Eckert, of Pittsburgh; and Dave Cassell, 11, who represented the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children, and was presented an autographed baseball and a football signed by the members of the Look Magazine All-America team, and Edward Collier, Dapper Dans president, also were introduced.

Peter J. Carpentieri introduced representatives of the Queen City Brewing Company and the Cumberland Brewing Company; James S. Getty, state's attorney; Sheriff Paul Haberlein, Fred Anderson, magistrate of the Juvenile Court; Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney and Mayor J. Edwin Keech. The mayor delivered the address of welcome and congratulated the Dapper Dans for the "wonderful work they are doing in Cumberland."

Rabbi Bertram Cohen, of Beth Jacob Congregation, gave the invocation and Rev. Charles Bogan, Allegheny County League for Crippled Children.

of Maryland, who came from Florida State with new head coach Tom Nugent; "Chuck" Tanner of New Castle, Pa., outfielder of the Chicago Cubs; Ronnie Kline, Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher; "Whitey" Dovell, who has been retained as assistant grid coach at the University of Maryland, and Dick Groat, captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Willie Hoppe Is Taken By Death At Age Of 71

Former Billiard Champ Dies After Lingering Illness

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Willie Hoppe, whose name was synonymous with billiards almost from the day he mounted a wooden box to reach the table in the rear of his father's barber shop, died Sunday after a long illness. He was 71.

Willie Hoppe suffered from cancer for many months. He was in St. Francis Hospital at Miami Beach for the last four months but, as late as Saturday night, was able to receive visitors.

William Frederick Hoppe was his full name but he was known the world over as just plain "Willie" from the time he showed the town boys at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., how to control the ivory balls.

He gave his last exhibition two years ago in Chicago. He was quiet, unassuming and always immaculate in dress. Poised, self-assured and courteous to friend and foe alike, the man who ruled the green baize world for so many years looked more like a man of the church than a part of the kaleidoscopic sports world of which he was a definite part for nearly half a century.

Played At White House

Yet, Willie, who began his career by touring dirty, smoke-filled pool rooms of bygone days, so dignified the game that he drew Metropolitan Opera stars, ranking members of world society, kings and princes to see him weave a spell with a cue. He probably was the only billiard player ever to give an exhibition in the White House. He played before President Taft in 1911.

Willie reached the heights in balking competition before World War I, declined somewhat during the "Golden Twenties" and then came back, recognized as the greatest three-cushion player in the world.

He was crowned 18.1 balking champion in 1906 at the age of 18, ruled the 18.2 world from 1910-1920 won the title again in 1923-24, was unchallenged as the 14.1 king from 1914 and tried the seldom-played and difficult 71.2 successfully in 1938.

As the exacting game of balking took its toll of top notch players, Hoppe turned to three cushions.

Won 20 Straight

Although always a threat, he was unable to win the world title until 1940 when he ran off 20 straight victories—still believed to be a record of tournament play. A year later, he collapsed while playing a challenge match with young Jake Schaefer, but a month later rebounded from a case of pneumonia and retained his title with the loss of only one game out of 18. The 1942 round robin championship saw him come through again, winning eight out of nine contests.

A great player at the age of 6, Hoppe never enjoyed a normal boyhood. Baseball was his favorite sport but he never dared play it for fear of injuring his hands. But years later he became a rabid fan and often took a chance of injury by working out with the New York Giants.

He was only 12 when he beat such established stars as "Ora Morningstar and Tom Gallagher. Two years later he defeated the great Maurice Vigneaux of France, in an 18.1 match that attracted worldwide attention.

Church, pronounced the benediction. Proceeds of the annual dinner will go toward the benefit of the Crippled Children.

Mountaineers Play Pitt, Holy Cross Quints This Week

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia's Mountaineers, ranked 10th in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches, have a full week's work ahead of them.

They must find a way to stop Pitt All-American Don Hennen Tuesday night and on Saturday they make their national television debut against Holy Cross.

This week's games mark the return of the Mountaineers, now 16-3, to their home court after playing five of their last six games on the road.

The Panthers dropped a 75-66 contest to Duke Saturday at Durham but Hennen still managed to come through with 31 points and the daring 5-foot-8 fireball from Wampus, Pa., is averaging about 28 points per game this season.

The long series between the two rivals stands at 42 victories for the Mountaineers and 48 for Pitt.

Saturday's TV game is scheduled at 3 p.m. and will be the first meeting between West Virginia and Holy Cross. The Crusaders were beaten 64-62 Saturday by New York University.

Schayes Scores 50 As Syracuse Loses

BOSTON (UPI) —Veteran Dolph Schayes scored 50 points—a personal high—in a vain effort Sunday as the Boston Celtics rallied to take a 139-137 television National Basketball Assn. decision from Syracuse in overtime.

The Celtics battled back from a nine-point deficit late in the game to tie it, 127-all, on Bob Cousy's hook shot with one minute remaining. Bill Sharman collected seven points in the five-minute overtime session.

Schayes' previous high was 47 points against the Philadelphia Warriors two years ago. Schayes topped all scorers while Cousy hit 32 for Boston.

The two teams set a Garden record for total points, 11 points more than the previous mark of 265.

Cards Purchase Billy Harrell

ST. LOUIS (AP) —The St. Louis Cardinals baseball club Sunday announced it had bought Billy Harrell, utility infielder-outfielder, from Cleveland at an undisclosed price.

However, it was estimated that the Cardinals paid a $20,000 waiver price for the 30-year-old 6' 1 1/2", 180 pounder.

Harrell played in 100 games for the Indians last year, hit .218 and stole 12 bases.

Musicals Have Girl

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Stan Musial Sunday was proud father of a seven-pound, eight-ounce girl. Mrs. Musial gave birth to the child Saturday at Barnes Hospital. The Musials have three other children, Dick, 18, Geraldine, 14, and Janet, 10.

Boxers' Purses Held Up After Bout On Coast

Art Aragon Stops Sawyer In Fourth

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) —Boxer Art Aragon, California's controversial "Golden Boy" who seeks a shot at welter champ Don Jordan's title, has been caught up in another bind.

Aragon knocked out Charlie Sawyer in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round Saturday night. Then both Los Angeles fighters' purses were held up.

Two years ago Aragon was charged with offering a $500 bribe to another boxer to take a dive in a Texas fight that never came off.

Referee Tommy Hart tolled the count Saturday night amid some of the loudest boing ever heard at Hollywood's Legion Stadium. Clayton Frye, inspector for the State Athletic Commission, conferred with Hart and decided to hold up purses of both fighters.

Referee Hart said he warned Sawyer after the first round to give his maximum effort. He said he felt Sawyer was giving an unsatisfactory performance. Sawyer went to his knees three times in the first round but Hart refused to count and ordered him back on his feet.

For the next two rounds Sawyer fought back.

The blows Sawyer took in the fourth really hurt him, and the finisher sent him down for keeps.

Pending an investigation, Aragon won't get his $11,040 — 60 per cent of Saturday night's net $18,400. Frye didn't specify a date for a hearing.

Contract Extended

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — University of Kentucky President Dr. Frank G. Dickey announced Sunday that the contract of head football coach Blanton Collier has been extended until 1965.

Collier, who came to Kentucky in 1954 from the Cleveland Browns where he served as backfield coach, has a record of 27 wins, 21 losses and two ties. Last season his Wildcats had a 5-4-1 slate.

Two Dodgers Sign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday night passed the halfway mark in signing players for the 1959 season with the inking of contracts by pitcher Stan Williams and first baseman Steve Bilko.

Carol Heiss Takes Title

Cops Figure Skate Crown Third Time

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — World Champion Carol Heiss Sunday captured her third straight National Senior Figure Skating crown with the greatest of ease.

The lovely, 19-year-old hazel-eyed blonde from Ozone Park, N.Y., climaxed the four-day championships with a dazzling exhibition of free skating that entranced the 5,700 spectators in War Memorial Auditorium.

The petite New York University sophomore joined David Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo., on the list of three-time national champions. The lithe, 22-year-old medical student at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, annexed his third title Saturday.

Carol's performance was so magnificent that the lowest mark she received from any of the judges was 9.6. Ten is perfect.

Nancy Heiss, Carol's 17-year-old sister, surprised by taking second place with 12.0 marks on three seconds and two thirds, Barbara Ann Roles, 17, of Temple City, Calif., was third with 15.0 marks.

Andree and Donald Jacoby of Syracuse and the Buffalo Skating Club retained their gold dance title.

Cooper Takes Panama Open

PANAMA (AP) —Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., turned in his fourth straight sub-par card Sunday and won the Panama Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 274.

Cooper, who had a 69-64-70 for the first three rounds, wrapped up the championship with a final round of one-under-par 71.

The Florida pro finished three strokes ahead of Don January of Denver, who had a 70 Sunday. Defending Champion Bob Watson of Ardsley-on-Hudson, N.Y., the first round leader, was third with a 279. Daw Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., trailed by another stroke for fourth place.

Marty Furgol Cops San Diego Open Tourney

Earns $2,800 Prize, Mike Souchak 2nd

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Marty Furgol, veteran shot-maker from Lemont, Ill., and a non-winner since 1954, captured the $20,000 San Diego Open golf tournament Sunday with a brilliant come-from-behind performance as big Mike Souchak blew a two-stroke lead on the final seven holes.

Furgol, who was tied for 34th place after the first two rounds then coming along with a 64 Saturday, had a 69 Sunday to win with a 72-hole score of 274. He picked up a check for $2,800. His rounds were 70-71-64-69.

There was a five-way tie for second place between Souchak; Bill Casper, Apple Valley, Calif.; Dave Ragan, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn.; and Bo Winger, Odessa, Tex., each with 276.

Furgol, 41, and a consistent winner on the tournament for a decade, hadn't captured a title or come very close since he won the Celebrities event in Washington, D.C., in 1954. He is no relation to Ed Furgol, former National Open champion.

Furgol had nines of 34-35 for his 69 Sunday while Souchak was 35-38-73.

Those who tied at 275 each collected $1,325.

Bob Harris, a long-shot from Winnetka, Ill., finished with a fine 69 for 276 and $900.

Tied with 277 were Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto, Calif.; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla.; Bob Duden, Oswego, Ore.; and Jackie Burke, Houston, Tex.

In recording the triumph, Furgol was 14 strokes under par for the distance and his 64 Saturday was the low round of the tournament.

Hoak Is Surprised Over Thomas Trade

COUDERSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Third baseman Don Hoak, traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates by the Cincinnati Redlegs in a seven-player deal, says he's surprised the Pirates gave up slugger Frank Thomas in the trade.

"I was really surprised to see the Pirates get rid of Thomas," Hoak told The Associated Press from his home. "I didn't think they'd ever trade him."

Wiffi Smith Wins

MIAMI (UPI) —Freckle-faced Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich., won a "sudden death" playoff Sunday to gain the Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association's mixed pro-am championship.

The 21-year-old Michigan golfer sank a two-foot putt for a par 4 on the first extra hole to defeat Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C. who missed a six-foot putt.

Both players finished the regulation 18 holes with a 220 total. Miss Smith shooting a six-under women's-par 71 in the final round of the 54-hole event. Mrs. Rawls carded a 73.

Zach Wheat, Ex-Dodger, Elected To Hall Of Fame

Outfielder Played 19 Seasons And Had Swat Mark Of .317

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —Zach Wheat, 70-year-old former Brooklyn outfielder, Sunday was elected unanimously to baseball's Hall of Fame by the committee on veterans. He will be formally inducted July 20 at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Zach Wheat

A powerful line drive hitter in his days at Ebbets Field, Wheat built a lifetime batting average of .317 for 19 seasons in the major leagues. He played with Brooklyn from 1909 to 1926 and finished his career with the Philadelphia A's in 1927, after drawing his release from the Dodgers.

Now living at a settlement called Sunrise Beach, near Versailles, Mo., the former farmboy rents cabins to hunters, fishermen and vacationers in the Ozarks.

When contacted by The Associated Press Wheat said, "of course, this makes me mighty proud. In baseball, it's the greatest thing you can accomplish. It makes me feel pretty good."

Although he has been absent from the big league scene for over 30 years, Wheat still travels about 100 miles to Kansas City to see an occasional game.

The veterans' committee elects every other year from men who have been inactive for 30 years. On alternative years, the 10-year members, of the Baseball Writers' Assn. vote on players active within 30 years, but out of the game at least five years. The writers didn't elect anybody last year. The veterans picked Joe McCarthy and Wahoo Sam Crawford in 1957. Wheat is the 84th member of the Hall of Fame.

A list of about 45 names was suggested to the 11-man veterans' committee, but only Wheat drew serious consideration.

"The best outfielder Brooklyn ever had" was the comment of Branch Rickey, veteran baseball man and Pittsburgh executive who served on the selection committee.

Wheat hit .300 or better in 14 of his 18 years at Brooklyn, leading the league in 1918 with .335. Although he batted .375 in 1923 and again in 1924 and hit .359 in 1925 he lost the batting title each time to Rogers Hornsby. He was a left-handed batter.

Although the Dodgers have had many fine hitters in the last 30 years, Wheat still holds the club records for games played with 2,318, at bats 8,859, hits 2,804, singles 2,038, doubles 464, triples 171, total bases 4,003 and extra base hits 766.

Fights This Week

WEDNESDAY — Ralph Dupas, New Orleans, vs. Del Flanagan, St. Paul, Minn., at St. Auditorium. Telecast by ABC.

Outsiders Move Into Cage Race

Billikens Win 11
In Row; Marquette Has String Of 12

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Staff Writer
St. Louis and Marquette, a pair of streaking outsiders, may at last have proved themselves qualified for ranking with the nation's top 10 teams in college basketball.

The Billikens (13-2) now have matched a St. Louis U. record with 11 consecutive victories after knocking off seventh-ranked St. John's of New York and Houston last week. Beaten only by top-ranked Kentucky and fifth-ranked Cincinnati this season, the Bills walloped Houston 71-47 Saturday night in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Marquette Cops 12th

Marquette, as good as ever after a layoff for exams, ran its winning streak to 12 in its bid to crash The Associated Press poll, defeating Louisville 66-62 as Jim McCoy and Mike Moran combined for 39 points. The Warriors have a 14-1 record, losing only to Nebraska, by two points, in their third game.

Kentucky (17-1) continued to roll, overcoming an early cold spell that saw the Wildcats hit only four field goals in the first 14 minutes for a 94-51 breeze against Florida in a Southeastern Conference game.

All but one of the top 10 came off winners last week, with St. John's, now 12-3, chopped down twice on the road. After losing 72-63 at St. Louis, the Redmen stumbled again Saturday at Chicago, losing 95-85 in double overtime to Loyola, which had lost six straight.

Al Seiden scored 33 points for St. John's, but it was his foul that sent the game into overtime, giving Frank Hogan two free throws that tied it 66-66 in the closing seconds of regulation play.

Hogan, a sub, finished with 30 points as Loyola ran away with it after Seiden fouled out in the second extra period.

Protects No. 2 Ranking
North Carolina (12-1) protected its No. 2 ranking by hustling past South Carolina 62-50. Kansas State (15-1), rated No. 3, squashed outclassied South Dakota State 91-65.

Fourth-rated Auburn (14-0), the lone unbeaten among major colleges, ran its string to 25 games with a 64-61 decision over Vanderbilt. Red Frederick scored 22 points for the Tigers, but it was a clutch, 13-point contribution by Henry Hart that kept Vanderbilt from duplicating its upset of Kentucky and retained Auburn's SEC lead.

Oscar Robertson scored 44 points for fifth-ranked Cincinnati (13-2) in a 95-87 Mc-Volley victory over Wichita. Big O, who also snared 23 rebounds, scored five points in the first 38 seconds to get things squared away fast.

North Carolina State (14-2), ranked No. 6, whipped Clemson 69-54 to stay close to Atlantic Coast Conference leader North Carolina. Michigan State (11-2), ranked No. 8, ripped Northwestern 81-72 while Purdue helped the Spartans Big Ten title hopes by knocking off Illinois 102-81.

Bradley Wins Three
Bradley (14-2), ranked ninth after losses to Cincinnati and Louisville, put away three victories last week, counting Detroit, Toledo and then Tulsa, 86-72, Saturday. West Virginia (16-3), No. 10, won twice last week, but was idle Saturday.

Dartmouth won its eighth in a row, beating Brown 71-59 for a share of the Ivy League lead with Princeton, now on a seven game streak after beating Rutgers 75-48 in a non-league game. Ken Brunsen hit three one-handers and carried Texas Christian, the Southwestern Conference leader, to a 72-60 victory over Southern Methodist. Washington defeated Sanford 75-52 and Oregon State tied the Huskies for third place in the Pacific Coast Conference by beating Oregon 58-57 in overtime on Lee Harman's final-second free throw. Leader UCLA was idle, while runner-up California beat outsider Santa Clara 66-55.

Among the independents, Xavier (Ohio) defeated Notre Dame 73-71 and St. Francis (Pa.) won 56-53 at Dayton as Wilbur (Trenton) Trough's fade-away jump broke a tie with 31 seconds left.

BOBBY IS CONGRATULATED—John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, right, is shown being congratulated by Mal Alberts, sports director of Station WJIC-TV, Pittsburgh, after the former had received the "special achievement" award at the Dapper Dan dinner last night at St. Mary's Church Hall. The award went to Cavanaugh, whose 1957-58 Fort Hill High School basketball team won the Maryland Class A championship at College Park. "Bobby" served as basketball coach at Penn Avenue High and Fort Hill High for 30 years before his retirement last June. In the center is Norman F. "Cotton" Geatz Sr., who accepted the Dapper Dan plaque in behalf of his son, Phil Geatz, University of Miami football star, who was unable to be present to accept the award. Alberts acted as toastmaster at the annual affair which attracted 340 persons.

St. Michael's, SS. Peter-Paul Chalk Up Wins

Post 3rd Straight
In 2nd Half Race

St. Michael's first half champions and SS. Peter & Paul runners-up posted their third straight victories of the second round in games played yesterday in the Catholic Youth Basketball League.

St. Michael's took St. Patrick's of Cumberland into camp at the Fayette Street court by the score of 34-17.

Four players scored in double figures in St. Michael's triumph. Dick Delaney and Werner slammed in 14 points each while Luca collected 12 and Bahen had ten. Neubeiser, St. Patrick's pivot man, scored ten points to pace the losers.

St. Ambrose was limited to six field goals, three of which were credited to Joe Nolan, the league's leading scorer, who was held to eight points.

"Chuck" Fields was SS. Peter & Paul top scorer with ten points to his credit while Mike Kelly was runner-up with eight marks.

St. Ambrose held the Dutchmen to a 12-9 score at halftime but the locals held a 22-14 advantage at the end of the third quarter and outscored the opposition 12 to 3 in the final stanza. St. Mary's Gaels defeated St. Peter's of Westernport in the other game of the twin bill on SS. Peter & Paul court by the score of 38-21.

B. Lueck paced the victors with ten points, Ferguson and 14 Herbert registered six and five points, respectively, for St. Peter's.

Outsiders Move Into Cage Race

Billikens Win 11 In Row; Marquette Has String Of 12

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer
St. Louis and Marquette, a pair of streaking outsiders, may at last have proved themselves qualified for ranking with the nation's top 10 teams in college basketball.

The Billikens (13-2) now have matched a St. Louis U. record with 11 consecutive victories after knocking off seventh-ranked St. John's of New York and Houston last week. Beaten only by top-ranked Kentucky and fifth-ranked Cincinnati this season, the Bills walloped Louisville 74-47 Saturday night in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Marquette Cops 12th

Marquette, as good as ever after a layoff for exams, ran its winning streak to 12 in its bid to crash The Associated Press poll, defeating Louisville 66-62 as Jim McCoy and Mike Moran combined for 39 points. The Warriors have a 14-1 record, losing only to Nebraska, by two points, in their third game.

Kentucky (17-1) continued to roll, overcoming an early cold spell that saw the Wildcats hit only four field goals in the first 14 minutes for a 9-51 breeze against Florida in a Southeastern Conference game.

All but one of the top 10 came off winners last week, with St. John's, now 12-3, chopped down twice on the road. After losing 72-63 at St. Louis, the Redmen stumbled again Saturday at Chicago, losing 95-83 in double overtime to Loyola, which had lost six straight. Al Seiden scored 38 points for St. John's, but it was his foul that sent the game into overtime, giving Frank Hogan two free throws that tied it 66-61 in the closing seconds of regulation play.

Hogan, a sub, finished with 30 points as Loyola ran away with it after Seiden fouled out in the second extra period.

Protects No. 2 Ranking

North Carolina (12-1) protected its No. 2 ranking by hustling past South Carolina 62-50. Kansas State (15-1), rated No. 3, squashed outclassed South Dakota State 91-65.

Fourth-rated Auburn (14-0), the lone unbeaten among major colleges, ran its string to 25 games with a 64-61 decision over Vanderbilt. Red Frederick scored 22 points for the Tigers, but it was a clutch, 13-point contribution by Henry Hart that kept Vanderbilt from duplicating its upset of Kentucky and retained Auburn's SEC lead.

Oscar Robertson scored 44 points for fifth-ranked Cincinnati (13-2) in a 95-87 Mo-Valley victory over Wichita. Big O, who also snared 23 rebounds, scored five points in the first 38 seconds to get things squared away fast.

North Carolina State (14-2), ranked No. 6, whipped Clemson 69-54 to stay close to Atlantic Coast Conference leader North Carolina. Michigan State (11-2), ranked No. 8, ripped Northwestern 81-72 while Purdue helped the Spartans Big Ten title hopes by knocking off Illinois 102-81.

Bradley Wins Three

Bradley (14-2), ranked ninth after losses to Cincinnati and Louisville, put away three victories last week, counting Detroit, Toledo and then Tulsa, 86-72. Saturday, West Virginia (16-3), No. 10, won twice last week, but was idle Saturday.

Dartmouth won its eighth in a row, beating Brown 71-59 for a share of the Ivy League lead with Princeton, now on a seven game streak after beating Rutgers 75-48 in a non-league game. Ken Brunsen hit three one-handers and carried Texas Christian, the Southwestern Conference leader, to a 72-60 victory over Southern Methodist. Washington defeated Sanford 75-52 and Oregon State tied the Huskies for third place in the Pacific Coast Conference by beating Oregon 58-57 in overtime on Lee Harman's final-second free throw. Leader UCLA was idle, while runner-up California beat outstanding Santa Clara 66-55.

Among the independents, Xavier (Ohio) defeated Notre Dame 73-71 and St. Francis (Pa.) won 56-53 at Dayton as Wilbur (Treut) Trous's fade-away jump broke a tie with 31 seconds left.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, daughter and sister, Ellen Robinson, who passed away two years ago today, Feb. 2nd, 1957. And the ache is just as great. But I know she stands on the Golden Street. Just inside Heaven's Gate. She's waiting there to welcome us. The one's who loved her so. And with God's help we'll be ready. When we are called to go. Sadly missed by Daughter, Mother, Sister and Brothers.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our mother, daughter and sister, ELLEN ROBINSON, who passed away two years ago today, Feb. 2nd, 1957.
Another year is passed and gone
And the ache is just as great
But I know she stands on the Golden Street
Just inside Heaven's Gate
She's waiting there to welcome us
The one who loved her so
And with God's help he'll be ready
When we are called to go.
Sadly missed by Daughter, Mother, Sister and Brothers

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K 8 3 ♥5 4 ♦10 7 ♣KQ 7 4 3
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass Pass 1 ♠

What is your response?
 A.—Two no trump. A bid of three clubs would be poor strategy. If the hand is to be played at no trump, which is not unlikely, you should be dearer to protect your two kings against attack on the opening lead.

ant consideration is not to persist with no trump because you have stopped in the other suits. Partner is marked with at least five hearts and four spades but must be short in the other directions.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠K 10 7 5 ♥9 2 ♦K 10 7 6 ♣A 5
 The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?
 It would be improper to respond with two diamonds because partner

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♥ 1 3 2 ♦ K 9 8 6 ♠ K Q 10 7 3

Your partner opens with two no trump. What is your response?

A.—Six clubs. You may have a grand slam if partner holds the right cards and there is no doubt about it academically. Furthermore a series of probabilities might give you a very valuable clue in defending the hand.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♥ A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♦ A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♣ A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

You open one spade and your partner has opened one heart. The bidding has proceeded

South	West	East	North
1♠	Pass	1NT	Pass

3 ♠ J 2 ♠ 3 ♠ J 10 6 3 ♠ K J 9 ♠ A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A—Three spades. Your hand is not quite strong enough to persist with the no-trump contract in view of partner's warning. Although your personal preference is for hearts, the best partnership trump here is spades. Four is a maximum point count of ten.

Q.—As South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

3 ♠ Pass 7
 What do you bid now?
 A: Pass. You have already done your noble duty by the bid.

Coal Hoppers Jump Tracks; Building Hit

Wall Collapses,
Road Is Blocked

A heavily-laden coal car jumped the tracks and smashed the side of the Campbell Building yesterday morning at the Childs Avenue railroad crossing in Piedmont, W. Va. No one was injured.

The car was one of eight hoppers which were derailed at the crossing, spilling nearly 100 tons of coal and blocking the crossing and both tracks on the main line of the west end of the Cumberland division.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company officials said the accident apparently was caused by a broken or loose wheel on one of the coal hoppers in the 63-car eastbound extra train.

Three of the cars overturned, spilling most of their contents along the railroad and at the crossing.

One of the hoppers apparently snapped off a utility pole near the tracks, the B&O spokesmen said, and the pole smashed into the north corner of the building.

Entire Wall Collapses

A former hotel which houses the Campbell Coal Company in offices on the third floor and an apartment and barber shop on the first floor. The structure faces Childs Avenue and runs parallel to the B&O tracks at the intersection.

The entire north end of the three-story brick building collapsed.

Mrs. Christina Davis and her 14-year-old daughter, Catherine, occupy the apartment.

Authorities said Mrs. Davis was asleep in her bedroom when the crash awakened her about 7:10 a. m. Startled, Mrs. Davis ran to see what had happened. Realizing that the side of the building was giving way, she left the apartment as quickly as she could.

Her daughter was visiting a girl friend and was not at home. The spare bedroom wall in Mrs. Davis' apartment facing the railroad was torn out and the ceiling and flooring collapsed. Offices on other floors were not occupied at the time.

State Route 46 which crosses the railroad at the intersection was blocked to traffic for over four hours. Automobiles and trucks were re-routed to Luke and over State Route 36 until the way was cleared at 11:15 a. m.

Wreckage Being Cleared
With both tracks of the main line blocked by spilled coal and derailed cars, the B&O quickly dispatched a relief train and took cars to the scene from Cumberland.

Workmen, using a heavy crane to lift the cars back on the tracks, had most of the debris cleared up by 8 o'clock last night before starting repairs on the damaged tracks.

A nearby railroad siding was used to re-route through trains, bypassing the salvage work. The only noticeable delay occurred when the St. Louis to Washington passenger train, the Diplomat, was held up for nearly an hour before being able to continue to its destination.

When the accident occurred the fire alarm in Piedmont summoned Tri Towns Fire Company No. 1 of Piedmont and Potomac Fire Company No. 2 of Westernport to the scene. Others who helped were Piedmont City Police, West Virginia State Police and B&O officials.

W. W. Keesecker, New Creek, W. Va., was engineer of the extra train, No. 4537, and R. B. Stout of Grafton, W. Va., was the conductor. The train was out of Fairmont, W. Va., headed toward Keyser.

No estimate damage has been made.

Building Wrecked When Train Derails

The entire wall of one side of the Campbell Building in Piedmont, W. Va., collapsed yesterday morning after being struck when several cars of a passing B&O coal train jumped the track. The accident occurred at the railroad crossing for State Route 46 on Childs Avenue. A large utility pole, seen hanging in front of the three-story brick structure, apparently hit the building, causing the wall to buckle. A woman asleep in a first floor apartment which was damaged in the collision was unhurt. The building, formerly a hotel, houses a barber shop and several offices. The crossing was blocked for hours.

Two PPG Locals Hear Reports

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Striking employees of the Creighton and Ford City, Pa., plants of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. met in local meetings Sunday to hear of officers of the Glass and Ceramics Workers union report on a new company offer for settlement of the three-month walkout.

Union negotiators were scheduled to make their reply to the proposal, which includes arbitration of six issues, at Philadelphia Wednesday.

In addition to the Pennsylvania plants, the strike also has idled PPG plants in five other states.

A union spokesman at Ford City said union members there did not ballot on the company's proposal Sunday but merely gave a rising vote of confidence to their negotiators.

Application for assistance in carrying out these practices was made through the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. In carrying out eight of these practices four hours. Truckers Told Load Limits To Stay The Same

Dels. Kessel, Ours
Cite Possible Loss

Relief for West Virginia truckers—in the way of increased load limits—appears to be out of the question at this time, Dels. Joe Bill Kessel (R-Mineral) and Larin Ours (R-Grant) report.

The two lawmakers said truckers in their respective counties had urged them to seek a hike in legal load limits.

"As much as we would like to help the truckers, we have been informed that the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 would make upward revision of load-limit regulations a very costly matter for West Virginia," they declared in a joint statement.

The delegates said they were advised of the federal restrictions in a letter from Emmett J. Bush, managing director of the West Virginia Truck Association.

Big Loss Possible

"If our state should now boost its load limits for truckers, West Virginia under the federal provision of the act would stand to lose approximately $600,000,000 in the next 10 years due to the law setting up the Interstate Highway System," they pointed out.

They said the loss would be in federal aid under the Interstate program.

Actually, there may be some hope for the truckers at a later date due to a study now being conducted under the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, they continued.

"But this study will not be completed until late in 1960 and Congress could not change the load-limit sections of the federal law until at least 1961," the lawmakers stated.

"We are very hopeful that the results of the 1960 tests may justify repeal of the federal regulation on weights, or a relaxation of the restriction which will then permit consideration of more liberal weight limits by the West Virginia Legislature," Dels. Ours and Kessel noted.

Must Know Weight

They said truckers of their counties have been complaining of undue hardship suffered under the state's program of enforcing load limit laws.

In an effort to explain the present regulations, they recalled that two years ago the House of Delegates passed a bill that would permit truckers to use 50-foot trailers on the highways.

The weight section of the bill was amended by the State Senate.

It originally specified that truckers had to "have reason" to believe they were exceeding the legal load limit.

The Senate changed that portion of the bill to read that truckers must "know" how much weight they are carrying.

"This regulation is probably the cause of the discomfort being suffered by the truckers of our counties in their dealings with the weighing crews," they added.

WTBO Operators Plan New Station

The Cumberland Valley Broadcasting Corporation, which operates Station WTBO here, has been negotiating for the purchase of a trace of land in Westernport for a radio station in the Tri-Towns area, it was reported here yesterday.

If the necessary franchise can be obtained from the Federal Communications Commission, the company plans to erect a tower so that the area can be covered.

The proposed site of the tower is reported to be on land belonging to the Morrison heirs, situated about Ross and Likens streets and extending toward Frank Ravenscroft's farm in Westernport.

Scholarship Systems May Be Studied

Method Of Awards
Said 'Disconnected'

By GEORGE BOWEN
ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A request for a legislative study of Maryland's hodgepodge and expensive system of college scholarships is more than likely to receive favorable reaction.

The state now pays nearly $1,500,000 a year in aid to students of higher education.

This covers only outright scholarships totaling nearly 900 and $150 direct aid per student at junior colleges.

There are bills pending in the Legislature to provide 200 more scholarships a year.

Provisions for the scholarships have been made from time to time during the past with little relation to each other.

This is noted in a resolution by the Montgomery County delegation seeking a special Legislative Council committee to study the entire picture.

"Disconnected, discontinuous"

"It has become increasingly apparent that our disconnected and discontinuous system of such scholarships needs to be examined in its entirety," the resolution states.

The state pays for 766 scholarships at private institutions of higher learning. They include St. Mary's Seminary, Peabody Institute, Johns Hopkins and Charlotte Hall.

The other scholarships are used at the state colleges — Morgan, Maryland State, and the University of Maryland.

There is no uniformity in awarding the scholarship. Some are made directly by State legislators, some by the institutions, others after examinations by the State Board of Education.

Different Methods Used
State senators and delegates use different methods in granting scholarships allotted them. They may just pick a recipient or have the institution hold examinations to select the most qualified.

Sen. Hughes (D-Caroline) intends to try a new method. After the institution gives the exams, the names of the most qualified scholars will be sent to the County Board of Education which will award the scholarship with financial need being taken into consideration.

Financial need also is an important qualifying consideration in the proposal before the Legislature this year to give out 200 more scholarships annually which would cost the state a maximum of $640,000.

University Gives Others
In addition to the nearly 900 scholarships currently awarded by the legislators and State Board of Education, the University of Maryland awards many through what it calls grants in aid.

Last year, 78 of these were held by athletes. The money for these comes from gate receipts and concessions.

This fourth full week of the 90-day session of the Legislature marks the beginning of committee efforts to find out if there is room for any pruning of Gov. Tawes' proposed 438 million dollar budget.

The major public hearings on the bill will be about billboards near expressways and compulsory insurance for motorists involved in accidents.

The Optimist Club of Bedford Road will hold its monthly business and board of governors meeting at the Bedford Road Fire Hall at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

George Brant, president, will be in charge of the meeting and committee chairmen will give their reports.

Barbers Will Meet

Members of Barbers Local 314 will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. at the Labor Temple, South Centre Street, Frank Greco, president, announced.

Officials To Attend
Training Session

The annual training meeting for some 38 classified employees of the State Department of Forests and Parks in the four Western Maryland counties will be held from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Expected from the state office for the meeting are State Forester H. C. Buckingham, A. R. Bond, assistant forester; Peter van der Lugt, property custodian and safety officer; Douglas M. Parr, radio technician, and William A. Parr, the superintendent of state parks.

Robert Creighn and Robert Chenoweth, both from the state Civil Defense staff, will review the Civil Defense program and will explain the rural fire defense program.

Mr. Johnson said these annual training meetings have been held each year since 1943, when the expansion of the department in the field of fire suppression was started. New ideas are disseminated, administrative problems discussed and preparation for the spring fire season made.

These state employees in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties are charged with the responsibility of protecting some 100,000 acres of woodland from fires. There are 12 forest fire towers in the four counties to assist in the operation of this program.

Personnel engaged in work on state parks, and state forests, in the reforestation program and roadside tree program will end the training meeting.

TV Group Plans Public Meeting

The Peoples UHF-TV Association, meeting last night at 130 North Centre Street, decided to call a public meeting later this week to discuss the progress and plans of the movement to bring free TV to Cumberland.

The decision to hold a public meeting was made, association officials said, after a report was received of a public opinion survey conducted last week, which indicated that information concerning UHF-TV is not widespread enough in the city.

The survey also indicated that 20 per cent of the people of Cumberland are interested in the free TV program, which is to be brought about by means of a translator station located on Irons Mountain, officials of the group said.

Frank Findling Gets Regional B & O Position

Bolt & Forge Staffer
Is Master Car Builder

Frank B. Findling, general foreman of the Bolt and Forge Shop here, has been promoted to master car builder of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Eastern Region.

His appointment to the territory which stretches between New York and Lorraine, Ohio, became effective yesterday. His headquarters will be in Baltimore.

Mr. Findling came to Cumberland in March 1956 as cost and methods engineer at the Bolt and Forge Shop here. He held that post until 1957, when he was promoted to general foreman.

Mr. Findling is a native of Baltimore and is a mechanical engineering graduate of the University of Maryland's School of Engineering.

He served his apprenticeship as a machinist at the B & O's Mt. Clare Shops in Baltimore.

Mr. Findling is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Locomotive Maintenance Officers Association, and Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Findling left here yesterday for Baltimore to begin his new duties in the Operating Department.

His wife, Harriet A. Findling, and their three children will remain at their home, 422 Kean Terrace here, until quarters are found in Baltimore.

Potomac Park Census Planned

The Citizens Committee of Potomac Park plans to take a census for the special taxing area in order to determine if the area is eligible for state revenues.

The committee has secured the aid of the Good Will group of the United Brethren Church. These women will begin the census sometime this week, officials of the taxing area stated.

In urging the full cooperation of residents of the Potomac Park area, the committee said the census is necessary in order for the taxing group to apply for special state revenues.

One of the things planned by the committee if the applications are approved at the end of the census is the purchase of fire hydrants. The group has been striving for some time to get hydrants for the Potomac Park area.

E. M. Cornelius is chairman of the Citizens Committee. Edward Brookman is secretary and Harold Turner is treasurer.

Light Snow Falls In W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A light, wet snow began falling in the northern, central and eastern portions of West Virginia early Sunday, but there was little accumulation. The southern area was sunny and clear.

The U. S. Weather Bureau Station here said there probably would be light snow flurries early Monday. A spokesman said the snow accompanied a high pressure area that moved into the state from the Gulf areas.

The forecast called for temperatures in the low 20s with continued cold Monday.

State Police reported that roads were slippery in most parts of the Northern Panhandle and in Monongalia, Preston, Taylor, Harison, Lewis and Upshur Counties. Slippery spots were reported in the Eastern Panhandle.

The weather in the southern portions was sunny and cool. However, weather observers said there was a chance of some snow flurries.

Huntington and Charleston had the Sunday afternoon high of 31 degrees. Other representative temperatures across the state included 29 at Martinsburg, 25 at Parkersburg, 24 at Elkins, 22 at Wheeling and 21 at Morgantown.

Coal Hoppers Jump Tracks; Building Hit

Wall Collapses,
Road Is Blocked

A heavily-laden coal car jumped the tracks and smashed the side of the Campbell Building yesterday morning at the Childs Avenue railroad crossing in Piedmont, W. Va. No one was injured.

The car was one of eight hoppers which were derailed at the crossing, spilling nearly 100 tons of coal and blocking the crossing and both tracks on the main line of the west end of the Cumberland division.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company officials said the accident apparently was caused by a broken or loose wheel on one of the coal hoppers in the 63-car eastbound extra train.

Three of the cars overturned, spilling most of their contents along the railroad and at the crossing.

One of the hoppers apparently snapped off a utility pole near the tracks, the B&O spokesmen said, and the pole smashed into the north corner of the building.

Entire Wall Collapses
A former hotel which houses the Campbell Coal Company in offices on the third floor and an apartment and barber shop on the first floor. The structure faces Childs Avenue and runs parallel to the B&O tracks at the intersection.

The entire north end of the three-story brick building collapsed.

Mrs. Christina Davis and her 14-year-old daughter, Catherine, occupy the apartment.

Authorities said Mrs. Davis was asleep in her bedroom when the crash awakened her about 7:10 a. m. Startled, Mrs. Davis ran to see what had happened. Realizing that the side of the building was giving way, she left the apartment as quickly as she could.

Her daughter was visiting a girl friend and was not at home. The spare bedroom wall in Mrs. Davis' apartment facing the railroad was torn out and the ceiling and flooring collapsed. Offices on other floors were not occupied at the time.

State Route 46 which crosses the railroad at the intersection was blocked to traffic for over four hours. Automobiles and trucks were re-routed to Luke and over State Route 36 until the way was cleared at 11:15 a. m.

Wreckage Being Cleared
With both tracks of the main line blocked by spilled coal and derailed cars, the B&O quickly dispatched a relief train and tool cars to the scene from Cumberland.

Workmen, using a heavy crane to lift the cars back on the tracks, had most of the debris cleared up by 8 o'clock last night before starting repairs on the damaged tracks.

A nearby railroad siding was used to re-route through trains, bypassing the salvage work. The only noticeable delay occurred when the St. Louis to Washington passenger train, the Diplomat, was held up for nearly an hour before being able to continue to its destination.

When the accident occurred the fire alarm in Piedmont summoned Tri Towns Fire Company No. 1 of Piedmont and Potomac Fire Company No. 2 of Westernport to the scene. Others who helped were Piedmont City Police, West Virginia State Police and B&O officials.

W. W. Keesacker, New Creek, W. Va., was engineer of the extra train, No. 4537, and R. B. Stout of Grafton, W. Va., was the conductor. The train was out of Fairmont, W. Va., headed toward Keyser.

No estimate damage has been made.

Building Wrecked When Train Derails

The entire wall of one side of the Campbell Building in Piedmont, W. Va., collapsed yesterday morning after being struck when several cars of a passing B&O coal train jumped the track. The accident occurred at the railroad crossing for State Route 46 on Childs Avenue. A large utility pole, seen hanging in front of the three-story brick structure, apparently hit the building, causing the wall to buckle. A woman asleep in a first floor apartment which was damaged in the collision was unhurt. The building, formerly a hotel, houses a barber shop and several offices. The crossing was blocked for hours.

Two PPG Locals Hear Reports

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Striking employees of the Creighton and Ford City, Pa., plants of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. met in local meetings Sunday to hear of officers of the Glass and Ceramics Workers union report on a new company offer for settlement of the three-month walkout.

Union negotiators were scheduled to make their reply to the proposal, which includes arbitration of six issues, at Philadelphia Wednesday.

In addition to the Pennsylvania plants, the strike also has idled PPG plants in five other states. A union spokesman at Ford City said union members there did not ballot on the company's proposal Sunday but merely gave a rising vote of confidence to their negotiators.

Ralph Smith Heads Area Coin Club

Ralph G. Smith, 907 Louisiana Avenue, has been elected president of the Western Maryland Coin Club.

Mr. Smith, B&O ticket agent here, has been a numismatist for many years and is a charter member of the coin club sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

Mrs. Alice Carroll was elected vice president. She is an ardent coin collector along with her father, William Hay, who is the club's oldest member and an active member of the club since it was organized here.

Other officers are Anthony J. Cioni, who was re-elected secretary. He held the post of president last year and continues to issue the coin club's monthly bulletin.

Olin D. Keyser, one of the most active collectors in this area, was re-elected treasurer and John Dorn was asked to serve for the third straight year as program director.

In his speech of acceptance, Mr. Smith called for an immediate campaign to boost membership, now 63, to the 100 mark. Those interested in the club and its activities were urged to call the City Recreation Department.

The next meeting of the club will be February 17 and Lincoln coins will be the theme of the meeting.

A penny with a new design is being issued to coincide with the Lincoln Day observance. It is the first change in the penny design since 1909.

Coins will be struck by both the Philadelphia and Denver mints.

Crafts Will Meet

The Building and Construction Trades Council will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

The committee has secured the aid of the Good Will group of the United Brethren Church. These women will begin the census sometime this week, officials of the taxing area stated.

In urging the full cooperation of residents of the Potomac Park area, the committee said the census is necessary in order for the taxing group to apply for special state revenues.

One of the things planned by the committee if the applications are approved at the end of the census is the purchase of fire hydrants. The group has been striving for some time to get hydrants for the Potomac Park area.

E. M. Cornelius is chairman of the Citizens Committee. Edward Brookman is secretary and Harold Turner is treasurer.

Light Snow Falls In W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A light, wet snow began falling in the northern, central and eastern portions of West Virginia early Sunday, but there was little accumulation. The southern area was sunny and clear.

The U. S. Weather Bureau Station here said there probably would be light snow flurries early Monday. A spokesman said the snow accompanied a high pressure area that moved into the state from the Gulf area.

The forecast called for temperatures in the low 20s with continued cold Monday.

State Police reported that roads were slippery in most parts of the Northern Panhandle and in Monongalia, Preston, Taylor, Harrison, Lewis and Upshur Counties. Slippery spots were reported in the Eastern Panhandle.

The weather in the southern portions was sunny and cool. However, weather observers said there was a chance of some snow flurries.

Huntington and Charleston had the Sunday afternoon high of 31 degrees. Other representative temperatures across the state included 29 at Martinsburg, 25 at Parkersburg, 24 at Elkins, 22 at Wheeling and 21 at Morgantown.
